HONOLULU (UPI) — "Altercations" involving black and white crewmen aboard the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Kitty Hawk in Vietnam waters resulted in injury to 46 persons, Navy officials announced Friday.

A brief statement from the Pacific Fleet command headquarters said it has been determined that the incident, which occurred aboard the ship sailing off North Vietnam Thursday, Vietnam time, "resulted in injuries, mostly minor, to 46 persons, both black and white."

Of those injured, two were evacuated from the ship for medical care and plans were to evacuate another. Pacific Fleet said the others were treated for minor injuries and returned to duty.

"The situation was brought under control largely through the positive assistance of a large number of blacks and whites in controlling the altercations and in constructive discussions of the situation," the statement said.

No reason for the incident was given, and it was not known whether weapons were used.

The incident occurred while the Kitty Hawk was on Yankee Station off the North Vietnam coast.

The Kitty Hawk departed from San Diego Feb. 17, 1972.

'Leaked info to exporters'

Spy tied to U.S.-Russ grain deal

By LEE EGERSTROM
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — A bizarre tale of a spy with a British accent indicates U.S. exporting firms did have "advance, inside information" on Soviet grain buying intentions, but the information didn't come from the Department of Agriculture, the Independent Press-Telegram's bureau has learned.

A "Mr. Smith" made frequent calls to the London Financial Times and the Milling and Baking News published in Kansas City and gave what both publications describe as "incredibly accurate" accounts of the grain buying as it happened or was going to happen.

The editor of Milling and Baking News, Morton I. Sosland, then called the grain companies "to run the figures by them."

"THEY thought I was crazy," Sosland said when contacted Friday in Massachusetts where he was attending a Smith College board of trustees meeting.

But the information Sosland passed along, seeking confirmation, of Soviet purchases, was in fact accurate and officially confirmed about a month later.

Those figures could have produced the alleged "windfall profits" for the large exporters at the expense of American farmers and taxpayers as charged in some of the current political rhetoric.

Sosland recounts his experience of answering long-distance phone calls from Mr. Smith which operators later confirmed came from London and Paris in a feature story in the Oct. 3 issue of his weekly trade newspaper.

The London Financial Times, which was also receiving similar calls from Smith, just received Sosland's story in the mail Friday.

"It is being read with great interest," a spokesman for the Financial Times said, adding that the London newspaper had conducted an exhaustive search for the man without success.

Smith identified himself as an editor and as a reporter for the Financial Times in his first telephone conversations with Sosland. He told the Financial Times he was an East German interested in the Soviet grain negotiations.

WHEN later confronted by Sosland saying that a check with the Financial Times showed he was not on their staff, he admitted he was an intelligence agent.

Sosland informed him that subscribing firms of the trade newspaper would like his intelligence work and would like to become clients of his. At this, according to Sosland, the caller only laughed saying

Senate OKs spending ceiling, rebuffs Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate approved a $250-billion ceiling on government spending Friday, but rejected President Nixon's request for unprecedented budgetary powers to avert a tax increase next year.

The ceiling won easy approval and was returned to the House after the Senate stripped the measure of a House-passed provision that would have let the President cut back — or even abolish — programs legislated by Congress in order to bring spending under control.

The vote was 81-11. Instead, by a 46 to 28 vote, a substitute plan was adopted permitting Nixon to order a fixed, percentage reduction up to 10 per cent covering all government departments evenly with the exception of nine major spending categories.

The exempt categories, totalling about $114 billion, include food stamps, social service grants, the Medicaid program, veterans' benefits, interest on the public debt, payments from social insurance trust funds, public assistance maintenance grants, military retirement pay and judicial salaries.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Len Jordan, R-Idaho, won approval after a lengthy and often stirring debate in which senators warned that the very preservation of Congress as an institution was at stake. By letting the President undo appropriations, they contended, Congress would be giving up one of its most important constitutional powers — to control the purse-strings.

Youthful Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., delivered the cleanup speech on that subject and a dozen senators walked to his desk afterwards to shake his hand and praise his eloquence. Standing in the well of the Senate, facing his colleagues, he told them to "return to the courage and conviction of the Clays and Calhouns" and warned that the House language would create "an executive monarchy."

Opponents of the Jordan amendment contended that it would leave the President room to make cuts in only $75 million of the budget — after the example programs and uncontrollable expenses were subtracted.

Republican backers of the proposal said the Democratic Congress had forced Nixon to seek a remedy by ballooning his budget beyond inflationary limits.

WITH Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and John Pastore, D-R.I., leading the charge, Democrats countered that the huge budget deficits of the past four years were brought on by unemployment and economic recession under Nixon's leadership.

The President claims he needs the budget-cutting power to avert a tax increase next year. That, said Pastore, slamming a fist down on his mahogany desk, is "the biggest political hoax of 1972 and I say just plain baloney."

"Right on, senator," chimed in Humphrey, who warned that if Congress abdicates its constitutional authority to control spending, it will never get it back.

Humphrey said it would give Nixon "the greatest political whip any president has ever had," enabling him to threaten members with cutbacks in public works and other pet hometown projects unless they do his bidding in Congress.

THE spending ceiling battle was blamed in part for a leadership decision to abandon plans for an adjournment tonight and try instead for a wrapup of the 92nd Congress sometime next Tuesday.

Democratic leaders, backed by several Republicans who are worried about the voluntary session of congressional power to the President, planned an all-out effort to restrict the President's authority under the bill.

Revenue sharing bill gets final Senate OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate gave final congressional approval Friday to President Nixon's proposal to share federal tax dollars with state and local governments. The vote was 89 to 10.

Despite opponents' last ditch warnings that it was a bad concept, members sent the bill to the White House, where Nixon's signature was assured.

Under the bill, the federal government will distribute $30.2 billion to the state and local governments over the next five years. The first year's allocation will amount to $5.3 billion.

Under the bill's complex allocation formula, each state is allocated a certain amount of money. The state itself keeps one-third of that amount and the remaining two-thirds must be given to local governments.

The bill provides no strings at all for the states' share of the money, but the cities, counties and other local governments must spend their share within three broad areas — public safety, sanitation, or transit systems.

The revenue sharing bill would a tortuous path through Congress and it took almost two years for it to win approval after Nixon proposed it.

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., scored the concept of the bill during its final consideration in the Senate. "Giving away taxpayers' money to state and local governments is not sound policy. The federal government has a responsibility to account for each and every dollar it collects," Stevenson said.

He added it could not make this accounting when it turned the tax receipts over to someone else to spend as they saw fit.

Furthermore, Stevenson said, revenue sharing is "a threat to the very viability of state and local government. Under it, the states will become increasingly dependent on the federal government."

Rep. John Byrnes, R-Wis., senior GOP member of the Ways and Means Committee, was even more emphatic in arguing against the bill before the House approved it Thursday.

"Nothing that has been done here in my 28 years gives me more concern about its impact on the fabric of our government. It launches us on the road to financing with federal revenues general activities of local governments, giving them a blank check."

For years, Washington has funnelled money into the states, but with careful controls and in specified categories.

Senate approves national antinoise bill, bans SST

By GIL BAILEY
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Senate passed by a 75 to 5 vote Friday a bill authored by Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., asking for "quiet please."

The bill, the Senate's first antinoise legislation in history, would, when it becomes fully operative, regulate almost every American noise except the chimes of church bells, and if those chimes were too loud, they too might be covered.

Similar but weaker legislation already has been passed by the House. The bill now goes to a Senate-House conference committee for compromise under the deadline of congressional adjournment expected next Tuesday.

Chances of a successful compromise were uncertain.

The Senate legislation provides $133.5 million to fight excessive noise and it also all but bans the supersonic transport (SST) from flying in U.S. skies.

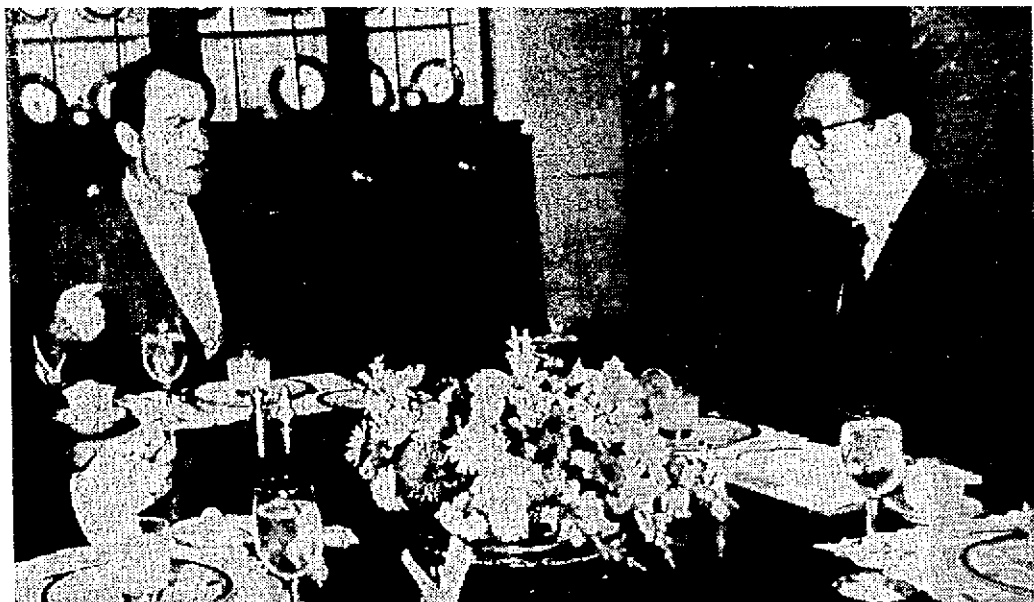

Tunney led the floor fight for his bill, agreeing to an amendment from Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., requiring the federal Department of Transportation to report by July 1 on how to finance the refitting of noisy jet engines as required by law.

The legislation orders the Environmental Protection Agency to set noise standards for airports, taking that responsibility away from the Federal Aviation Administration. However, the FAA does have a veto power over regulations which might affect safety.

In addition the bill authorizes the EPA to set maximum allowable noise levels for almost every kind of machinery now used in the U.S. A 3½-year time schedule is set up for industry to meet those standards.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., fought for the ban on the SST, saying that it would cause $160 million in property damage each time the plane crossed the continental United States.

Thieu recalls ambassadors Peace barriers emerge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House indirectly confirmed on Friday that many barriers still block the road to a Vietnam settlement after Henry Kissinger's four days of private negotiations in Paris.

The slight crimp in the official wall of secrecy surrounding the negotiations appeared after Kissinger and his top assistant, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., reported to President Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers on their talks with North Vietnamese negotiators Xuan Thuy and Le Duc Tho.

for Hanoi via Moscow. He was reported to have told Chinese and Soviet officials before his departure from Orly Airport that many difficult issues remain to be settled before there can be peace in Vietnam.

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, was asked at the White House about Tho's statement. He acknowledged—in a roundabout fashion — that many obstacles remain when he said: "We would not challenge Le Duc Tho's statement."

Despite the apparent obstacles — or perhaps because of them — South Vietnam called home two of its highest officials connected with the quest for a negotiated settlement of the war.

Ambassador Tram Kim Phuong, Saigon's envoy to Washington — was summoned home for urgent consultations. The South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry announced in Saigon a short time later that Ambassador Pham Dang Lam also has been called home from his post as head of the Saigon government's peace talks delegation in Paris.

Despite the diplomatic shuffling, Ziegler would not go beyond his careful comment on Tho's statement, except to assert that "we are hopeful that the negotiations will be productive, as we said before."

"I cannot characterize in any way, or discuss in any way, the negotiations," Ziegler repeated several times before telling persistent questioners that "I'm not prepared to discuss this subject any further."

The spokesman did say, in response to a barrage of questions, that there is no change in the U.S. policy of bombing military targets in North Vietnam and

Red troops capture Ben Het

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops captured the former U.S. Green Beret base at Ben Het, then turned their guns Friday on another base in the Central Highlands and pressed forward on other fronts north of Saigon and in the Mekong Delta.

In fighting around the capital throughout the day and Friday night, military sources said South Vietnamese troops backed by tanks killed eight Communists near Trang Bang, 30 miles north of Saigon. Government casualties were given as four killed and one wounded.

U.S. Air Force B52 heavy bombers flew eight missions of three planes each within 25 miles of the capital as part of the allied effort to blunt the Communist surge now in its ninth day there.

Variable cloudiness today and tomorrow. High near 77, low 58. Complete weather on Page A-7.

The Communists also showed new strength in the Mekong Delta, battling South Vietnamese defenders near the town of Cai Ba, southwest of Saigon. In the air war, the U.S. command disclosed that U.S. F111 swingwing jets attacked within 10 miles of Hanoi Thursday just a day after the destruction of the French legation during an American strike near the North Vietnamese capital.

Lunging out of Cambodian border strongholds, Communist troops overran the important Central Highlands base camp of Ben Het after 36 hours of shelling and ground attacks in what might make the start of another big Communist push in the area.

It was the first time in the war the big camp, a former Green Beret outpost built on three hilltops, had been taken by the Communists. Ben Het is 33 miles northwest of Kontum, and 260 miles north-east of Saigon.

Military sources said South Vietnamese casualties at the camp numbered at least nine soldiers and eight dependents killed, with 18 persons wounded. A pilot spotted about 140 of the survivors moving southwest of the camp Friday, but there was no word on the fate of the remainder of the 500-man force made up mostly of mountain tribesmen. A number of the soldiers' families also lived on the base.

It was the second significant Communist victory in the area this week. Wednesday they captured a government post near Duc Co, 50 miles south of Ben Het in bloody fighting that killed at least 67 defenders and left about 90 others missing, military sources said.

Why Wainwright selected 'Jigsaw' over star role in important movie

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

James Wainwright turned down a starring role in an important movie to play missing persons investigator Frank Dain in the TV series "Jigsaw," which rotates Thursday nights with "Assignment: Vienna" and "The Delphi Bureau" on ABC-TV.

And he doesn't regret it. A single episode of "Jigsaw" — or any other series — is seen by more people than any newly released motion picture, no matter how popular the film may be. Wainwright is keenly aware of this.

"THAT'S a fact of life," he says. "It is not a pull-down aimed at movies. Anyone in my business who wouldn't love to star in a good feature is either off his rocker or very tired. But right now, I believe I'm in the right place — television."

Adds Jim: "All I had to do was think of all the unknown actors who became stars in television before making it big in features. Steve McQueen and Clint Eastwood are two of the biggest movie stars in the world. They started as TV actors."

"But look at all the big-time screen stars who have struck out with TV shows. I think it's very interesting. I'm no expert on the subject since I've only been in Hollywood about five years, but I know movie actors who once turned their noses up at television are knocking themselves out to get into it now. That tells me something.

"It tells me that one great picture doesn't carry a guarantee of more work to follow. But if you get the lead in a TV series and do the best you can, you're not going to remain an unknown actor for very long.

"Television audiences make their own stars. They will accept an actor they're seeing for the first time a lot more easily than they will an established movie personality."

"Jigsaw" is filmed at Universal Studios and on location.

CAROLYN JONES, who starred as Morticia in the spooky "The Addams Family" series a few years ago, returns to television tonight on NBC-TV's "Ghost Story."

The episode is titled "The Summer House," and it's a drama of the supernatural in which Carolyn is forced to live the same mistake again and again.

Carolyn knows about making mistakes. In fact, she and her husband, conductor-composer Herb Greene, recently wrote a book in which they relate incidents in which they keep making the same mistakes at the same time. The book is titled "Twice Upon a Thine." The actress says friends suggested that she and her mate write a book after they recounted funny incidents of their courtship and marriage. So they did.

Now they have just finished a second book, titled "The Too Too Solid Mesh." It's about Greene and the problem of a compulsive eater.

Carolyn withdrew from acting and moved to Palm Springs a few years ago. She says she loves it in the desert. And she has more time for writing than when she lived in Los Angeles.

GABRIEL DELL, who starred in "The Corner Bar," a situation comedy series on TV last summer, guest-stars on tonight's episode of "Banyon."

The Dead End kid of years ago portrays Sam Whitney, a crusading sports reporter who is writing a book about a prize fighter who disappears after scoring an upset victory. He hires Banyon (Robert Forster) to try to find the boxer.

BOB CRANE has been signed by radio station KMPC to do five three-hour "holiday specials" with specialized themes for Halloween, Thanksgiving, New Year's Eve, Valentine's Day and April Fool's Day.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Notes to watch television by:

The movies: ABC-TV says its Oct. 1 Sunday motion picture, "Love Story," got the highest national audience rating of any movie in video history... second in audience pull of the all-time list, says the network, is "Ben-Hur," followed by "The Birds" and "The Bridge on the River Kwai," which scored the first blockbuster movie success on television and propelled the bidding by networks for top films.

Another recent ABC-TV movie, "Goldfinger," seen Sept. 17, is seventh on the list... of the top 10, which include made-for-TV movies, seven were broadcast by ABC-TV, five this year... and four are those made-for-TV films, including the sixth-ranked "Brian's Song," last season's award winner about Chicago Bears football star Brian Piccolo, who died of cancer in his twenties... some other ABC-TV made-for-video films have also been exceptional, but this season the network is, above all, depending heavily on big motion pictures to carry it in the ratings.

For instance, ABC-TV plans to show "Patton," with George C. Scott, on Nov. 19, and "True Grit," with John Wayne, Nov. 12... its other upcoming movies are scheduled to include "Lawrence of Arabia," "Z," "The Ten Commandments," "Dr. Dooley," "The Plaza Suite," "The Taming of the Shrew" (with Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor) and "Paint Your Wagon"...

this Sunday, ABC-TV offers the movie version of "The Odd Couple," and it has acquired six more James Bond spy films besides "Goldfinger" to begin two seasons hence.

ABC-TV says, by the way, that its two announced made-for-television "Movie of the Week" films with Burton and Taylor will be seen this season... entitled "Divorce His" and "Divorce Hers," they will be separate but related dramas viewing the dissolution of a marriage through the eyes of each of the involved parties, and will be broadcast the same week.

Because of its heavy reliance on movies for ratings this season, ABC-TV is being cautious about giving out the air dates for most of them too far in advance, part of the theory being: this is at least some kind of protection against effective counter-programming that could be worked up easier by the competing networks if they had more notice.

Premiere: An offbeat, distinctively styled western, "Kung Fu," about a stoic but warmly human Chinese-American Buddhist priest who has a price on his head and roams the U.S. frontier of the 1860s, arrives on ABC-TV Saturday night with the first of its occasional hours this season... scheduled in the time slot normally occupied by another western, "Alias Smith and Jones," and unfortunately opposes the high-rated "All in the Family," "Kung Fu" stars David Carradine, son of actor John Carradine and a fine performer in his own right, as the fugitive priest, and he couldn't be much better.

"I know you feel sorry for me, Marmaduke, but you don't have to come in every five minutes to tell me."

The headlines: Julie general manager, cited Bob's "great success" with his "Back to School" special on KMPC and as a substitute for vacationing

Ex-disc jockey Crane starred for six years on TV's "Hogan's Heroes."

Hard-liner Hayakawa to leave S.F. State post

Combined News Services

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa took a hard-nosed approach to campus violence and catapulted to fame on top of a student strikers' sound-truck, his multicolored tam o'shanter a symbol of resistance.

From the moment the slight, bespectacled professor ripped out the truck's loudspeaker wires on his first day as acting president of San Francisco State College — a moment recorded by scores of news cameras — the world was put on notice that Samuel Ichijiro Hayakawa was in command.

For four years, the flamboyant, internationally known semanticist reigned over the campus. He provoked storms of controversy as he ended months of vandalism, bombings and violence that brought hundreds of riot policemen daily to the school, torn by disorders and dissension involving militant black students and sympathetic faculty members.

When he announced his retirement Friday, the campus was calm, as it has been for about 3½ years.

Hayakawa said his target date for leaving the post was June, 1973, but that he would remain longer if trustees of the 19-campus university system had not yet chosen a successor.

Saying he was resigning "with a mixture of regret and relief," Hayakawa said he wanted to continue serving the university "in whatever capacity I can in community, legislative, public relations and fund-raising activities."

Hayakawa, once mentioned as a Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, said he expected "a few job offers" but said he had no political plans "whatever."

Unpopular?

L. Patrick Gray, acting director of the FBI, said Friday in Chicago he doesn't expect policy changes he's made since succeeding the late J. Edgar Hoover to meet with the approval of every member of the bureau.

"There were times in the first six to eight weeks when I believed that one or more of the assistant directors would have rejoined at my instant removal," Gray said.

High prices

Earl Butz, the secretary of agriculture, said Friday in Prattville, Ala., that retailers — not the Nixon administration or the farmer — should be blamed for the high prices of meat.

Speaking in shirt sleeves from a flatbed trailer in a pecan grove on an Alabama farm, Butz said he was glad that the price of beef on the hoof is the highest it has been in two decades. "It is high time that Alabama cattlemen get good pay for what they are producing," he said.

Authorized

EDWIN E. "Buzz" Aldrin, the second man to walk on the moon, said Friday he knows of no unauthorized items left on the lunar surface by the Apollo 11 astronauts.

A magazine article said Aldrin and astronaut Neil Armstrong, the first man to step on the moon's surface, carried six gold crosses to the moon and left one behind. But he said they were authorized by the Space Agency.

Editing job

Former Sen. Eugene McCarthy said Friday he had tentatively agreed to become a senior editor of Simon and Schuster, the New York publishing house.

Reached at his Washington office, the man who was an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination this year and in 1968 said that if he accepted the job he would take an apartment in New York and would not expect more than the usual salary paid to editors of that rank.

"I think anyone who's written a book wants to be an editor," said McCarthy, who has written six. "Being an editor looks like a better life somehow. All you have to do is think of a book and find a writer and then criticize what he's done."

Congress out

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said Friday in Pensacola, Fla., that he has no plans of returning to Congress after he leaves the Department of Defense.

It was the closest the former Wisconsin congressman has come to revealing any details of his plans beyond Jan. 20, when he will step down from his defense post, no matter who wins the presidential election.

There had been speculation Laird might try to return to Congress, where he served eight terms as a Republican representative and was beginning his ninth when he became secretary of defense in 1969.

Disciplined

Arthur Herman Bremer, the convicted assailant of Alabama Gov. George Wallace and three others, was disciplined by a three-man panel Friday in Baltimore for instigating a scuffle at the Maryland Penitentiary, prison authorities said.

Bremer, serving a 53-year sentence for shooting Wallace and the others at Laurel, Md. shopping center May 15, will lose for 30 days "second grade" privileges for the Oct. 6 incident which Bremer said was touched off when another inmate made a homosexual advance and threatened to kill him.

Takes blame

One of Chief Justice Warren Burger's top administrative aides said today he acted without the chief justice's knowledge when he accompanied a lawyer-lobbyist in an effort to persuade House Speaker Carl Albert to narrow the legal remedies in a pending product-safety bill.

Rowland Kirks, chief of the administrative office of the United States Courts, said he went to Intercede with Albert with Thomas Corcoran, a Washington lawyer who represents major drug interests, after Corcoran had said the bill could overburden the federal courts with new cases.

The drug industry was leading the fight against the bill, which is now nearing enactment.

Turnabout

Five years ago, Marvin Katko went prowling — he called it "antique hunting" — on vacant property owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Briney. He set off a booby-trap gun, was wounded, and successfully sued the Brineys for $30,000.

On Friday, a jury awarded Mrs. Bertha Briney $1,775 in damages sought from Katko. Mrs. Briney charged Katko "unlawfully and maliciously" entered her property and selected certain articles belonging to the couple. The settlement was far below the $75,000 sought by the Brineys.

Pioneer

Pioneer plane builder John Northrop of Santa Barbara comes out of retirement tonight to be honored by world leaders in aviation.

Northrop, now nearly 77, will be inducted into the International Aerospace Hall of Fame on the 25th anniversary of the world's first supersonic flight.

The Hall of Fame is located in San Diego's Balboa Park. The names of three aviation pioneers who have died will be added with that of Northrop — Gen. H. H. "Hap" Arnold, German engineer Otto Lilienthal and Sir Geoffrey de Havilland, the British engineer and industrialist who built war planes in both World Wars and later the first jet airliner, the Comet.

Challenge

Conductor Zubin Mehta, on a U.S. tour with the Israel Philharmonic Orchestra, said Friday that bomb threats have not caused the rest of the tour to be canceled and have not put him or the musicians off stride.

"We play so much better in New York than in Tel Aviv, you can't imagine," Mehta said. "A true performer shines when the challenge is the greatest."

Allende takes over radio stations

Combined News Services

SANTIAGO — President Salvador Allende took over all radio stations Friday "until further notice" as a series of crippling strikes by truck drivers and merchants spread across Chile. He warned the nation the strikes would cause grave shortages of consumer goods in the next two days. Allende said the strikers "have overstepped the margin of the constitution and the law. They know that they are creating difficulties for the national economy." Police, meanwhile, fired tear gas into a crowd of about 200 antigovernment demonstrators who tried to forcibly close several downtown stores which had opened for the day.

Chile's trucker confederation struck for higher rates and over establishment of a state trucking company in southern Chile. The small merchants went out in sympathy.

New IRA arrest

BELFAST — British troops claimed they captured a top officer of the illegal Irish Republican Army Friday night after a raid on a back-street drinking club. He was identified as Neil Alexander, a company commander in the militant provisional IRA's 3rd Battalion, based in Belfast's Roman Catholic Ardoyne area. The arrest, if confirmed, brings to 11 the total of senior IRA men captured in recent weeks.

U.S. missionaries held

MANILA — Two American Roman Catholic priests doing missionary work in the Philippines have been arrested and placed in military camps on charges of violating martial law, the government said Friday. One of the priests, director of a radio station in the central Philippines, was charged with "inciting to rebellion." The other was charged with "continuing broadcasts despite an official ban."

NATIONAL

Wily crooks get $400,000 in gems

NEW YORK — Thieves foiled "the most sophisticated alarm system available" and stole diamonds worth $400,000 from a firm in the heart of the diamond district Thursday night or early Friday, police said. An unknown quantity of cut diamonds and $1,500 cash were reported missing from the Jaral-Sheer Corp. safe by a company vice president who said the large, double-door vault was unlocked but closed when he arrived at work Friday morning.

Police on picket line

CHICAGO — Dissident Chicago policemen, who led a traffic-ticket blitz two weeks ago, stepped out of the ranks and into the picket lines Friday to protest their denial of a collective-bargaining agent. Several hundred policemen turned in their uniforms and service revolvers for picket signs at police headquarters before demonstrating in front of City Hall and various police stations across the city. They are pressing for higher wages, the end of one-man squad cars, elimination of lie-detector tests in disciplinary cases and the right for collective bargaining.

Curfew imposed

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. — A dusk-to-dawn curfew was placed in effect Friday at Marshall University after a three-hour disturbance that authorities said was touched off by objections to a campus drug raid. Five persons were arrested in the disturbances Thursday, which apparently were set off by the arrest of 29 persons in a pre-dawn drug raid Wednesday.

New D.C. prison trouble

WASHINGTON — Seventy-seven prisoners barricaded themselves for three and a half hours Friday in a dormitory at the District of Columbia jail, where about 50 inmates seized 12 hostages in a 22-hour cellblock rebellion two days ago. The second incident — this one without hostages — ended late Friday afternoon when district officials, with a "show of force," talked the prisoners into voluntarily leaving the dormitory and moving into other parts of the century old, red brick jail in northeast Washington.

Inflation bad as ever

BRUSSELS — Inflation in Europe is as bad as ever and may be getting worse, the European Common Market said Friday. The Market's monthly economic report said food prices at the end of August were up 7.4 per cent in France over those of last year, and up at least 6 per cent in all other market nations. But wages generally kept pace, the report said.

Bank rate abolished

LONDON — Britain abolished the bank rate Friday and introduced a more flexible system for controlling credit, ending a tradition that lasted 270 years. For most of the past three centuries, the bank rate controlled all interest rates in this country on loans, mortgages and installment buying. Fluctuations in the bank rate, set by the Bank of England, were seen as indicators of Britain's economic strength, and hindered flexible use of fiscal devices.

Athletes in air crash

SANTIAGO, Chile — An Uruguayan Air Force transport plane carrying members of a Montevideo rugby team among the 45 persons aboard was reported lost Friday after a flight across the Andes. The Uruguayan Embassy in Santiago said the twin-engine turboprop was ferrying the team to Chile for a series of exhibition games scheduled to begin today.

Canada-China pact

OTTAWA — Canada and China concluded negotiations Friday on an agreement which could open direct air links between the two nations in early 1973. The negotiations coincided with the second anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations between the two nations.

Consumer bill gains

WASHINGTON — The House passed a major consumer bill Friday, setting up a federal panel empowered to protect Americans from unsafe products, and sent it to the Senate amid Nixon administration hints it may be vetoed. The legislation, creating a five-member independent commission with authority to protect consumers against death or injury from everyday household products, won House approval on a voice vote.

Strip-mine curbs fail

WASHINGTON — Any chance for passage of federal strip-mining control laws this year died Friday in the Senate, but Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield promised swift action on it next year. Mansfield formally declared the end of congressional consideration of the controversial laws, saying he was unable to get agreement on a time limit for debate.

Legal battle delayed

WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration is seeking to put off a legal battle with Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., over the President's use of a pocket veto until after next month's presidential election. The dispute involves President Nixon's use of the pocket veto while Congress was recessed in Dec. 1970, to kill legislation providing $225 million to train doctors. Contending that the President used the veto illegally, Kennedy filed suit Aug. 9 in an effort to have the legislation declared law.

Time-saver

WASHINGTON — The House Friday unveiled a $1-million electronic voting system that will replace its time-consuming roll calls starting next January. The new system is expected to save about 15 minutes per roll call, which would have saved each member 91 hours if it had been in effect last year.

Could level a city block

Trial set for man with dynamite

By MOLLY BURRELL
Staff Writer

A Bellflower man arrested when deputies seized what they described as a cache of dynamite big enough to level a city block was bound over to Superior Court Friday on a charge of malicious possession of explosives.

Investigators said the defendant, Edgar Hutchinson, 24, of 9269 Park St., told them the dynamite found in his shed was to be sold to the Hessians motorcycle club.

Hutchinson, whose preliminary hearing was Friday in Los Cerritos Municipal Court, will be arraigned Oct. 27 in Norwalk Superior Court. He also is charged with possession of drugs.

A sheriff's department arson-explosives expert testified at the preliminary hearing that the 700 sticks of dynamite they confiscated could have leveled a square city block with the blast heard for five to 10 miles.

The sticks, packed in seven separate cases, were seized when deputies arrested the defendant Sept. 13.

Also confiscated were 10 cases of blasting caps, rolls of detonating cord, 3.9 grams of heroin and 6.3 grams of marijuana, according to testimony.

Ten of the sticks were leaking nitroglycerine and were burned on the scene after officers evacuated residents in the block and called the fire department.

The remainder was detonated at the Sheriff's Way-side Honor Ranch Oct. 4, according to the arson-explosives expert, Sgt. John Spiller of the strategic support detail.

Hutchinson, who said he was a leather craftsman, told investigators the explosives had been brought to his place by three men on Labor Day weekend. He told officers he was storing them until a buyer arrived and that he was told the Hessians would buy the whole lot.

Deputies testified they went to the Park Street residence after an anonymous phone tip and several stakeouts on the house.

Deputy Frank Butler testified that Hutchinson met him at the door, showed him the blasting caps and then said, "I might as well show you the rest — maybe you'll give me a fair shake."

The dynamite was found in a shed behind the house, lodged next to a water heater.

The drugs, including three balloons of heroin, marijuana cigarettes and loose marijuana, were in three separate containers in Hutchinson's house. Additional heroin, needles, tube, and bulb were found in the shed, according to testimony.

Officers entered the house without a search warrant and Hutchinson led them to the location of all of the drugs and explosives, according to testimony.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Tom Romey said investigation had revealed that the explosives had been taken in burglaries at a federal construction site in Arizona.

Judge Roberta Butzbach ruled that the defendant's bail remain at $50,000 pending his Superior Court appearance.

West coast ports to be studied for tanker use

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — A $3 million study of construction of deep water port facilities along the Pacific coast for the new super oil tankers has been authorized at the request of Rep. Glenn Anderson, D-Long Beach.

The study was included in the plans of the Army Corps of Engineers after the House Public Works Committee, of which Anderson is a member, authorized it in a resolution.

The Army corps was already studying such ports on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

"In light of the discovery of oil on the Northern Slope of Alaska and the resulting requirement to transport the two million barrels per day of oil to markets in the United States," he said, "I believe that we must determine the ability of California ports to accommodate the supertankers which will be delivering approximately 65 per cent of this oil to California."

Supertankers will have a capacity of 225,000 to 265,000 tons with a draft to a depth of 67 to 70 feet. Their capacity will be so great that the only port on the West Coast which can currently handle them is Seattle, according to Anderson.

"If we don't build them, Canada and Mexico certainly will," Anderson said.

The area to be studied will be between Bellingham, Wash., and San Diego. Construction of any such port would be subject to environmental protection laws, Anderson said.

Probation hearing

I am 18 years old and I would like to become a probation officer, but I don't know what the requirements are. M.S., Lakewood.

To apply for a job as a county probation officer, you must be 21 years old and have a bachelor's degree, preferably in psychology or sociology. The requirements for state parole officers are the same except that you also must have at least one year's case work experience in such areas as social work or county probation work. The state plans to institute an on-the-job training program next year for otherwise qualified applicants who don't have the required case work background. The Los Angeles County Probation Department also has a night supervisor job classification that requires only 60 units of college. County probation officers supervise juveniles and adults convicted of offenses carrying county jail punishment, and parole officers deal with individuals who have been released from state prisons or California Youth Authority facilities. There currently are many more applicants than there are county probation jobs, but there are some openings in the state parole field. For more information, write to the County Probation Department, 320 W. Temple St., Los Angeles, Calif. or to the California Department of Corrections, Parole Division, 107 S. Broadway, Los Angeles.

Illegal muffler

I got a ticket after I installed a new muffler on my Volkswagen. How long has it been against the law to replace your car's original muffler with a more powerful and noisier one? If these noisy mufflers are illegal, why are they still being sold? G.S., Long Beach.

Laws requiring mufflers that prevent "excessive or unusual" noise have been on the books for many years and California Vehicle Code Section 27151 prohibits replacement mufflers from being noisier than the original, stock unit. A more recent law has established decibel limits for various vehicles and the Highway Patrol now is using decibel meters in a stepped-up program of enforcement. Auto parts retailers say the hot mufflers, particularly prevalent on VWs, are sold for use in drag strip, racing, slaloms and similar competition events. One foreign auto parts store manager told ACTION LINE that he always informs customers the hot mufflers are illegal for street use in this state.

Enrollment

Several of us in my office have been arguing about the number of students enrolled at Long Beach State University, Auburn University in Alabama and Iowa University. Can you settle the issue for us by giving us approximate enrollment figures for this year or last year? L.C.S., Long Beach.

Last spring, 14,753 full-time students (those taking 12 or more units) and 13,881 part-time students attended Long Beach State. Final figures aren't yet available for the current semester. During the 1971-72 school year, the approximate number of full-time students at Auburn University was 12,000; at Iowa State University, 19,000; and at the University of Iowa, 14,000. For enrollment figures and other data on American colleges and universities, check "Lovejoy's College Guide", "The Comparative Guide to American Colleges", or "Barron's Profiles of American Colleges", available in the science department of the Long Beach Library, 4500 Atherton St.

Short lifetime

In December, I purchased an Evans wrist watch with a lifetime guarantee for $19 from Dooley's Hardware Mart. The watch stopped running in May, and I took it back to Dooley's. I was told to send the watch and a check for $3 to Importers Watch Service, P.O. Box 15444, Los Angeles. My check was cashed in May, but I've never received the watch. Can ACTION LINE help? C.M., Long Beach.

No. ACTION LINE wrote to the company more than a month ago and we never received an answer. There is no telephone listing for the firm and Dooley's watch department has no address for the company other than the post office box. ACTION LINE gets frequent complaints from readers who have purchased "guaranteed" watches that must be sent back to the factory for repairs. Our readers sometimes don't get their watches back and find that these "lifetime guarantees" may be worthless.

Plot to blackmail mayor told jury

United Press International

Details of an alleged plot to blackmail the mayor of Irwindale into approving legalized card parlors in the San Gabriel Valley community were outlined by a prosecutor Friday to a superior court jury.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Thomas Elden said the three defendants — two real estate men and an Irwindale city councilman — used drugs and lewd pictures in the scheme to blackmail Mayor Richard Diaz, 34.

A jury of seven women and five men was seated Thursday in the court of Judge Thomas C. Murphy. The defendants were Councilman Richard Breda, 42; David Joseph Tintary, 52, and his brother, Perlee, 48, who together operate a real estate business.

Elden said in his opening statement that Breda was pressured into going along with the scheme when the Tintarys helped him out of financial difficulty by using money from gambling interests in the community.

He said the defendants spiked a plate of enchiladas with a hypnotic drug called quaalude in hopes Diaz would eat it. The mayor, however, ate only a small portion because "they were terrible," the prosecutor said.

Diaz was a councilman at the time of the scheme during the summer and fall of 1971 and was an opponent of legalized gambling in Irwindale.

Young woman released in Chino ambush case

CHINO (U) — A 22-year-old woman booked for investigation of murder in connection with the Chino prison ambush last week was released Friday because of insufficient evidence, a sheriff's spokesman said.

Cheryl Ann Rockin was released after being questioned by San Bernardino County sheriff's deputies about her reported acquaintance with Ronald Wayne Beaty, the 35-year-old convict who escaped.

Meanwhile, authorities fingerprinted a small foreign sedan, believed to be one of two cars used in the escape. Detective Sgt. J. J. Hurlbert said the car was registered to Miss Hockin.

POLICE in Long Beach said they found the car after a tip from San Bernardino deputies.

Police also raided a Hayward apartment said Sheriff's Capt. Charles Callahan, but he declined to elaborate.

Authorities also set up a series of roadblocks near the California Institution for Men at Chino in an attempt to find local residents who may have witnessed the ambush and escape.

Guards were driving Beaty from the Chino prison to a San Bernardino court when they were forced off the road.

Guard trainee Jesus Sanchez, 24, was handcuffed and shot to death in the escape and his partner, George J. Fitzgerald, 36, was wounded.

Pair convicted of bringing fake money to L.A.

Two men were convicted in federal court Friday of bringing $306,000 in counterfeit money to Los Angeles from New Jersey.

Daniel Gerard, 39, of Las Vegas, and Harold E. Goldstein, 45, of Union, N.J., will be sentenced Oct. 24 on their conviction of conspiracy to transfer the phony $20 bills.

The bills allegedly were part of $1.5 million in counterfeit money that was printed in New Jersey.

2nd autopsy on victim in police shooting error

United Press International

A second autopsy was performed Friday on the exhumed body of Phillip Eric Johns, the victim of a police mistake shooting six weeks ago.

County Coroner Thomas T. Noguchi said at a news conference that the initial autopsy report "had made an omission" by failing to note if there were powder burns on the body.

Such burns would indicate that Johns was shot at nearly point-blank range and corroborate the testimony of two police detectives that Johns lunged at them, triggering the shooting.

THE POLICEMEN had entered John's bedroom in search of a robbery suspect they thought as living there. The detectives said Johns woke up suddenly and lunged to grab the barrel of one of the men's guns.

Noguchi said a preliminary examination turned up evidence of "powder tattooing" on the body.

Rhino Reinhardt romantic on range

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Lion Country Safari north of here may have its sensuous lions, but the San Diego Zoo is touting a prolific beast of its own, Reinhardt the Romantic Rhino.

The zoo announced Friday that Reinhardt became a father Wednesday when a baby weighing about 135 pounds was born at the San Pasqual Wild Animal Park, 35 miles north of here. The park, part of the zoo operation, has 1,800 acres for animals to roam.

The zoo said Reinhardt's baby, the third white rhino ever born in captivity, came from a female rhino named Utandi. They also announced Reinhardt has at least six other pregnant female rhinos to his credit.

It wasn't always that way.

For nine years Reinhardt was housed at the San Diego Zoo with his mate, Tombassan. For nine years they largely ignored each other.

It's believed the transfer to the free atmosphere of the wild animal park re-established the Rhino's natural inclination to reproduce.

Reinhardt is one of four males who keep company with 15 females, but the other three males are too young for romance.

There's been such a change in his attitude that zoo officials said Reinhardt's even giving his old mate Tombassan a new eye.

Husband sentenced in kill plot

RIVERSIDE (U) — A 53-year-old Elsinore man convicted of hiring a Marine private to kill his wife and mother-in-law was sentenced Friday to one year in jail and three years' probation.

Superior Court Judge Francis Estudillo ordered Louis Wolshin, free on $15,000 bail, to begin serving the sentence Oct. 17.

A jury convicted him July 21.

Police said Wolshin agreed last April to pay a 22-year-old Marine from El Toro Marine Air Station $1,000 to kill his wife, Olga, and $500 more to kill his mother-in-law, Vera S. Alexander, both in Miami, Fla., at the time.

THE private, Timothy Boudette, testified he was hitchhiking when Wolshin picked him up, offered him the job and bought him a round-trip ticket to Miami. He said he flew to Florida and met Mrs. Wolshin but never intended to carry out the killings.

Wolshin was arrested after Boudette told the story to police.

The Wolshins have been married 23 years and have six children. Mrs. Wolshin filed for dissolution of their marriage last May but withdrew the request six days later.

During the trial she testified she could not believe her husband hired anyone to kill her "because I know my husband loves me."

But Schneider said that Golden West no longer proposes to provide the service until "some indeterminate" period when an airport has been built at Anaheim capable of accommodating airplanes.

Opponents of Golden

Block to Golden West's bid for helicopter line urged

United Press International

In a controversy involving Financier C. Arnolt Smith, a Civil Aeronautics Board examiner Friday recommended the board reject a bid by Golden West Airways to gain control of the bankrupt Los Angeles Airways, a helicopter service.

Examiner Harry H. Schneider said in Washington the proposed acquisition and transfer of the helicopter airline to Golden West, an air taxi airline, was "not in the public interest."

OPPOSITION of the takeover, which included the board's Bureau of Operating Rights and Airwest, Pacific Southwest and Western Airlines, contended that Golden West Airlines was unlawfully controlled by Smith, chairman of the Westgate California Corporation.

Smith, a friend of President Nixon and Westgate, denied the claim. Schneider said that he would not reach any decision on the question of control since he found that the acquisition should be disapproved.

Schneider told the board, which must make the final decision on the case, that any public benefits from the transfer were "more illusory than real." He said Golden West has been serving most of the places previously served by Los Angeles Airways. A "basic additional direct public service benefit would have been Golden West's operation of a helicopter service between Anaheim and Los Angeles.

According to the bureau, it was determined at that time that Westgate should buy up all of these entities and thereby preserve and protect its monopolistic position in these markets.

Schneider also said Golden West originally argued that it would be able to turn a profit on its Anaheim-Los Angeles helicopter service, and this would strengthen its over-all financial position.

Schneider also said that he felt a board decision to uphold his recommendation would not affect the employees of Los Angeles Airways.

Nixon irresponsible, says McG, plugging ethics policy

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Democrat George McGovern, plugging a seven-point ethics-in-government program, said Friday President Nixon "wants all of the power in the White House — but none of the responsibility for what is going on."

Addressing a noon-hour rally that attracted a police-estimated 10,000 people in downtown Portland, the Democratic presidential candidate said of Nixon:

"When the scandals and corruption of his administration are exposed, he maintains a stony silence — to convince us that his staff, his party, and his Cabinet officials operate completely on their own, without any instructions from him."

McGovern unveiled his ethics proposals in Seattle, shortly before flying to Oregon.

The candidate has talked in the past about many of the proposals — including a $50 limit on individual campaign contributions and the disclosure of the financial affairs of all federal employees earning more than $15,000.

His seventh point was brand new. He called for the creation of an Office of Investigations, independent of the President and Congress, to look into any charges of improper activities by members of the executive branch, including presidential aides.

ADDRESSING a breakfast meeting of the King County Bar Association, McGovern said:

"I suggest today that government is serving money more than the interests of the people. I suggest that the influence of big money has become so pervasive in Washington that the American people are being systematically denied the protection they deserve."

The seven points in McGovern's "Ethics in Government" program:

1. A federally financed campaign fund, estimated to cost 93 cents a year per voter, to defray the costs of primaries and general elections for federal offices. Such legislation should limit individual political contributions to $50 a person.

2. "As president, I shall not allow any special interest group to plead its case in secret meetings at the White House unless the fact of the meeting and the presentation is made public."

3. Requires public notice and public transcripts of closed door meetings held between government officials and representatives of private interests.

4. "I will instruct the White House staff to keep hands off the independent regulatory agencies." If such orders were violated, he said, he would demand prompt resignations.

5. Legislation to strengthen safeguards against conflicts of interest, one proviso "to require a wait of five years before any government employee can take a job with a company with which he has had dealings on behalf of the government."

6. Require full disclosure of the income, assets and liabilities of all federal employees earning more than $15,000.

7. Propose creation of an independent Office of Investigations outside the Justice Department to look into charges of illegal activity made against members of the executive branch or the White House staff.

"I believe these reforms would go a long way to ward restoring public confidence in the government of the United States," McGovern said.

Later Friday, McGovern flew to San Francisco for a rally at the Cow Palace.

In remarks prepared for the rally, McGovern emphasized the Vietnam issue, saying Nixon representatives "cross the globe and fuel speculation that peace is near." He went on:

"We have been led too often to the apparent edge of peace only to find there the continuation of war. We have been told too often that peace is within our reach to celebrate another round of rumors."

McGovern harked back to a post-inaugural address in which Nixon reminded voters he had campaigned on a pledge to end the war and added, "If I fail to do so, I expect the American people to hold me accountable for that failure."

Kennedy plans probe of Watergate by Nov. 7

By ED ZUCKERMAN
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., is covertly planning his own investigation of the Watergate eavesdropping case, the Independent Press-Telegram Washington Bureau learned Friday.

Senate sources said Kennedy, in his role as chairman of the Senate Administrative Procedures and Practices Subcommittee, intends to conduct the hearings sometime between the adjournment of Congress and the Nov. 7 election.

A Kennedy spokesman denied the report, however.

"Sen. Kennedy has no present plans to hold Watergate hearings," insisted James Flug, a subcommittee staff aide. "The subcommittee is staying close to the situation, however."

BUT sources close to two subcommittee members confirmed the report in separate interviews.

They acknowledge that the Massachusetts Democrat is seeking the subcommittee's permission to use subpoena powers to force several of President Nixon's top campaign associates to submit to questioning.

Thus far, Nixon's aides have eluded congressional attempts to quiz them about the controversial incident and subsequent developments which first surfaced June 17 when five men were arrested inside the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee.

AMONG those expected to receive orders to testify are former U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, who vacated the cabinet post to head Nixon's re-election campaign, and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans who now is chief of Nixon's campaign finance operation.

Mitchell and Stans have been accused of controlling a secret GOP fund which reportedly was used to finance the Watergate operation. Both have denied the allegation.

Seven men who were indicted by a federal grand jury for their alleged involvement in the Watergate break-in will not be called to testify, the sources said.

KENNEDY has sent a draft of a letter, outlining objectives which he plans to pursue in the hearing, to selected subcommittee members, they added. Kennedy requires support from a majority of the panel's members — consisting of five Democrats and three Republicans to issue formal announcement of the hearing.

The sources said Kennedy is waiting for adjournment of Congress to set the stage for a serious political confrontation with the witnesses.

A refusal to obey a subpoena, the reasoning goes, would result in contempt of Congress charges. But, given the political nature of the controversy, it is unlikely that the Senate would approve penalties for contempt.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, sought this week to conduct a similar probe of the Watergate affair. After his panel refused to grant him subpoena powers, he invited four top Nixon aides to answer questions on a voluntary basis.

But none of the witnesses appeared Thursday.

Spiro sees McG as historically amiss

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Spiro Agnew said Friday night Sen. George McGovern has stepped outside America's historic "philosophical consensus."

He said the Democratic presidential nominee has departed from traditional political behavior by making unreasonable attacks on the administration and by adopting mistaken ideas of morality in dealing with crime and the Vietnam war.

Agnew said McGovern and his followers "reflect an unacceptable philosophy — a philosophy combining elitist attitudes with political fantasies, untempered by a reference to tradition and unwilling to learn from the wisdom of the past."

Agnew's remarks were prepared for delivery to the 10th anniversary dinner of the state's Conservative Party, which is backing President Nixon for re-election.

Although the Conservative Party's 127,000 registered voters are a small fraction of the state's huge electorate, their backing sometimes can spell the difference between victory or defeat for a candidate of a major party.

Agnew said America's basic philosophy is "neither liberal nor conservative, but pragmatically American."

He said the "philosophical consensus" of the nation's founding fathers consisted of three things:

— "The belief of the primacy of reason . . ."

— "The acceptance of the need for a just order based on law."

— "Acknowledgement of a transcendent moral order."

Agnew said McGovern's position on law and order differs from Nixon's in that McGovern contends poverty is a major cause of urban violence.

He said that while no one seriously opposes elimination of poverty, "George McGovern seems to indicate that if a human being drops below a certain artificially designated poverty line a kind of 'no-fault' morality begins to apply."

He said even a poor person is responsible for his acts and that to say otherwise "treats him as if he were an animal rather than a person."

Nurses in uproar over Shriver talk

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sargent Shriver created an uproar in a nurses' meeting Friday by making a political speech his host said wasn't wanted, then headed for South Dakota to help a Democratic congressman in his race for the Senate.

"We were guaranteed a nonpolitical speech," said Charles E. Boss, a director of the National Federation of Licensed Practical Nurses. "Instead, we had one of the dirtiest political speeches of the campaign."

The Democratic vice presidential candidate, speaking to the group's annual convention, devoted a part of his speech to denouncing Republicans "who say we have to keep the Defense Department budget big to keep the jobs going."

AFTER Shriver had left the hall, the group debated a resolution condemning such political speeches.

"We wanted to keep this a nonpartisan meeting," Mrs. Fitta B. Schmidt, executive director of the association said. "We understood that this would be an address on the health needs of the people."

Shriver said he was speaking to the group's annual convention, devoted a part of his speech to denouncing Republicans "who say we have to keep the Defense Department budget big to keep the jobs going."

M'Govern to accent labor at Arena

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Democratic presidential nominee Sen. George S. McGovern will address a free, public political rally — with accents on labor — at 7 p.m. today in the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Free bus transportation will be provided from four McGovern-Shriver offices, according to the Long Beach McGovern-Shriver Committee.

Buses will depart at 5 p.m. from 3631 E. Seventh St. and 3390 Magnolia Ave., Long Beach; 731 S. Pacific Ave., San Pedro, and 18640 S. Crenshaw Blvd., Gardena.

McGovern will be introduced by Leonard Woodcock, national president of the United Auto Workers, which has endorsed the Democratic presidential ticket.

Actor Jack Lemmon and Yvonne Brathwaite Burke will be co-masters of ceremony. Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., will give the keynote talk. Also scheduled to speak are farm labor organizer Cesar Chavez, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, and entertainment personalities Tom Smothers and Rod Steiger.

The rally is sponsored by the Southern California Labor Committee for McGovern-Shriver. Arena doors will open at 6:45 p.m. with seating on a first-come, first-served basis.

Entertainment will be provided by singer Johnny Rivers and the Billy Watkins Band, a 50-piece all-girl drum and bugle corps and Hollywood celebrities. More than 75 area Democratic candidates are expected to attend.

DEUK VS. PROP. 20

State Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach (37th District), announced Friday, with regret, that he opposes Proposition 20, the Coastal Zone Initiative.

Deukmejian told the Whittier Rotary Club that "coastal protection, clean air and clean water are important to all of us, but so are electricity, food, clothing, shelter, recreation."

He concluded, after careful study, he said, that Proposition 20 "misses the mark, creates a new tier of bureaucracy, undermines local government and could result in a severe economic depression with a great loss of jobs, land values and local tax revenues."

The senator noted that the state's unemployment rate "has dropped from a high of 7.4 per cent to 5.9 per cent and the state labor force is now at an all time high of 8.3 million workers."

"A moratorium on building for two to four years could reverse this encouraging picture and cause great hardship to many citizens."

BOND ON JURIES

Bill Bond, Republican nominee for Assembly in the East Long Beach-Signal Hill 39th District, said Friday he would support legislation to allow less than unanimous jury votes for conviction in criminal cases.

Such legislation, he said, would greatly reduce the incidence of hung juries and help to clear crowded court calendars in California.

Bond said the basic tenet of American law that a man is presumed to be innocent until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt should never be tampered with or forgotten.

"However," he said, "when 10 or 11 out of 12 jurors are clearly convinced of the guilt of the accused their judgment should not be frustrated by the wishes of one or two dissident jurors. To do so would be to negate the judgment of the majority and, in many cases, to permit proven law breakers to go free."

The candidate noted that the U.S. Supreme Court last May decided that unanimous jury votes are not required in state criminal trials, the matter being left to individual states to decide.

He said California law now permits less than unanimous verdicts in civil cases, three-fourths being the requirement. Bond pointed out that England, in 1967, abolished the unanimous verdict requirement and allows one dissident juror.

Since the U.S. Supreme Court ruling, he said, six states in this country have followed the English precedent.

ANDERSON AIDE

Mrs. McG rests after pain spasm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eleanor McGovern, wife of Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern, was reported resting comfortably Friday at a hospital where tests showed nothing seriously wrong.

Further tests were planned to determine what caused her acute abdominal pains Thursday night, and aides said she probably will remain at Georgetown University through Saturday.

She was taken to the hospital late Thursday night after winding up an eight day 7,000 mile campaign trip across the country.

Schmitz will sue networks

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Rep. John Schmitz, American Party candidate for president, said Friday the party would file a $25.5-million lawsuit against the three major television networks because of a "virtual news blackout" of the American Party campaign.

U.S. campaign tumult not Pravda's style

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda cast a jaundiced eye Friday on the tumult of America's election campaign and said President Nixon owes much of his popularity to the Moscow summit meeting in May.

Boris Strelnikov, Washington-based correspondent for the chief Communist party organ in the Soviet Union, gave readers their first comprehensive look at the "candidates and issues in the campaign's final stage."

He concluded that the "overwhelming majority" of experts believe Nixon will defeat Democratic candidate George McGovern and said the big plus for Nixon is handling of foreign affairs — Vietnam aside.

Strelnikov said the Republicans have an edge in foreign policy, "above all the visit to Moscow, the talks with Soviet leaders and conclusion of the Moscow treaties."

There was no mention of Nixon's mission to Peking or of any influence that improved Chinese-American relations might have on the election.

PRAVDA's man in Washington sniffed in disapproval at the campaign carried out in an "atmosphere of scandalous exposures, condemnations and counter-condemnations that fly back and forth like a ball in a ping-pong match."

While he did not say so, readers got the point that the unseemly hurly-burly of an American campaign is in sharp contrast to the orderly, no-choice elections in the Soviet Union.

Strelnikov said all polls show a "growing disappointment with both bourgeois parties." The Republicans, in campaigning, avoid mentioning Indochina, inflation, rising prices, unemployment and crime, Pravda said.

McGovern is "trying to gather up a Democratic Party split by contradictions" and has "drawn the sympathy of a significant part of the voters," the newspaper reported.

Although McGovern still has two popular issues — stopping the war in Indochina and cutting the military budget — his position is weakened by the party split and "his cash box is empty," Pravda said.

It said the Republicans depict McGovern as a "dangerous radical, an isolationist and as a man who allegedly strives to undermine the military might of America and capitulate in Vietnam."

BUT Strelnikov also had criticism of McGovern. He wrote that in a quest for votes McGovern "maneuvers and changes his appeals from one group to another, including the rich Zionists by announcing that support for Israel is one of the most important aims of America."

And Pravda quoted a letter to the Washington Post criticizing McGovern for "being a politician like all the others."

If McGovern's antiwar stand doesn't seem to be catching on with voters, Pravda said the U.S. Communist party is gaining attention with its emphasis on an immediate end to the war.

The newspaper said presidential candidate Gus Hall and his running mate, resistance of reactionaries and chicanery of the judiciary.

GOP warning on campaign violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's campaign director told his organization Friday to "constantly guard against potential acts of violence," saying there has been an outbreak of such incidents and blaming some on supporters of Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern.

A four-page memorandum from Clark MacGregor, addressed to state chairmen and campaign workers of the Committee for the Re-election of the President, declared:

"I strongly urge, once again, that you employ all security measures necessary to protect the personnel working at your offices."

THE MEMO, headed "Violence directed at the Nixon campaign," was issued as a news release in an evident effort to offset charges by the McGovern camp and by Sen. Edmund Muskie that their campaigns were beset with apparent espionage and sabotage at the hands of Republicans.

MacGregor said if McGovern "would join us in constructive and positive way, opposing any break of the peace, any effort to promote violence," it would go a long way toward protecting the campaign from physical trouble, and permitting the candidates to debate issues rationally and calmly.

A McGovern spokesman said the Democratic nominee always has been in favor of that.

"The question is whether the Republicans will recall their political provocations," said Kirby Jones, spokesman for McGovern's organization.

JONES said MacGregor's suggestion was strange coming from the Republican organization.

"It's sort of like Al Capone asking the innocent citizens let's you and I get together and we'll stop crime," Jones said.

MacGregor listed a series of incidents at Nixon campaign headquarters in cities across the nation. He cited a welfare rights demonstration at the Washington headquarters of Democrats for Nixon Thursday, and said that on Oct. 8, a fire bomb was found propped against the door of a campaign headquarters in Newhall, Calif. "In a manner calculated to ignite it under the feet of whomever opened the door."

"Luckily, the device was discovered before it went off," the MacGregor memo said.

"These two very recent incidents, added to a lengthy list of others, make it quite clear that our facilities and our staffs must constantly guard against potential acts of violence," MacGregor said.

HIS MEMO then listed a series of other incidents, such as Muskie and aides to McGovern had listed their allegations of campaign sabotage.

In St. Louis, meanwhile, Atty. Gen. Richard J. Kleindienst said he would like to see the trial of seven men indicted in the Watergate case concluded prior to the Nov. 7 presidential election.

"There's no interest in delay as far as we are concerned," Kleindienst said. "We're ready to go to trial."

"...I'd like to get it out of the political debate," the attorney general said.

Pollster says M'Govern in slight gain

NEW YORK (AP) — A telephone survey by Sindlinger & Co. says Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern has cut into President Nixon's lead, but only slightly.

Based on a sample of 2,311 people between Sept. 29 and Oct. 5, Nixon had 60.5 per cent of the vote to 21 per cent for McGovern, with 18.5 per cent undecided.

Albert E. Sindlinger noted a "surprising" 2.1 per cent increase in the number of undecided voters from the previous week, when Nixon led 62.1 to 21.5, with 16.4 per cent undecided.

THE LATEST survey indicated an increase in the number of people who planned to vote to 81,106,000 from 79,133,000 the previous week.

Sindlinger said an analysis of his surveys between Aug. 25 and Oct. 2 show Nixon leading McGovern by better than 6 to 1 among "influential, politically sophisticated, community-active" Americans.

A poll of 75,000 junior and senior high school students conducted by Scholastic Magazine showed Nixon leading McGovern 67 per cent to 25 per cent.

Minorities lag on top school jobs

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A report saying the percentage of minority group teachers in California lags behind the figure for minority pupils triggered a low-key clash on hiring policies Friday among State Board of Education members.

Figures from the State Department of Education's Bureau of Intergroup Relations said more than one in four California school children — 29 per cent — comes from an ethnic minority, mostly blacks and Mexican-Americans. But only 10.5 per cent of the state's teachers have minority backgrounds, the report added.

For school principals, the figure for racial minorities was even lower—6.5 per cent, the report said.

The figures were based on data collected in the fall of 1971 — the latest available.

Board member Tony Sierra of La Jolla asked at the board's regular monthly meeting if there was any way it could "not encourage, but require districts to hire more Mexican-Americans."

Newton Steward of Eureka, the board's president, said schools should avoid "quota hiring" while encouraging minority groups to enter the teaching field.

"But they must compete with everyone else," he added. "I don't think it's fair to cut out any ethnic group in the hiring process."

"I WISH I could agree with some of the statements made here today, but I can't," Sierra said as the discussion continued.

"We get the feeling when we apply at a school district that everyone is equal — but some are a little more equal than others," he said.

"Minority groups have been shut out for so long they don't believe it even when you open the door," said state schools chief Wilson Riles.

Propositions 5 and 21 counteract each other

INDEPENDENT,
PRESS-TELEGRAM—A-7
Long Beach, Calif., Sat., Oct. 14, 1972

BY BOB SCHMIDT
From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — For California's public school boards, Prop. 5 gives authority and Prop. 21 takes it away.

Prop. 5 would allow the Legislature to give school boards authority to initiate new programs of their own choosing, the better, proponents say, to meet unique, local educational needs.

Prop. 21 would withdraw from school districts authority to implement programs designed to achieve racial balance.

PROponents say the intent of Prop. 5, which was put on the ballot by the Legislature, is to permit "more local discretion in making decisions concerning the education of your children."

The State Constitution presently prohibits school districts from initiating any programs without specific prior authorization from the Legislature. This, proponents say, results in hundreds of pieces of legislation being introduced every year to help school districts meet particular local problems.

Prop. 5 would eliminate the need for so much legislation at the state level, proponents say. It would allow the Legislature to give school districts authority to solve their own problems, so long as local programs did not "conflict with the laws and purposes for which school districts are established."

In other words, Prop. 5 would reverse present law, which allows districts to do only what the Legislature permits. If Prop. 5 is passed and the necessary legislation is enacted, districts could do anything not specifically prohibited. This, opponents say, is a delegation of too much authority.

THEY warn that the only control which could be exercised on school boards which lose sight of their primary function and introduce programs "at the expense of sound, basic education" is the lengthy and expensive recall action against board members, or the equally lengthy enactment of remedial legislation at the state level.

Present law, opponents contend, allows sufficient flexibility in the choice of programs, "but it also provides prior restraints against experimentation with programs which are based solely on purely speculative theory."

It would open the door to renewed experimentation with "progressive education," Sen. William E. Coombs, R-Rialto, warns.

Supporters of Prop. 5, including Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, R-San Jose, Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, and the State Chamber of Commerce, laud the concept of "placing the power of decision-making closer to the people" which they say Prop. 5 would do.

The ability to make decisions about school assignments of pupils would be removed from local districts if Prop. 21 passes.

THE MEASURE qualified for the ballot via the initiative process. There was no well-financed campaign, and the proposal was one of only three or four of the nine initiatives making the ballot which represents true grass-roots efforts.

The main proponent is Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield, R-South Gate, and the measure is supported by Dr. Robert Peterson, superintendent of schools in Orange County.

Passage of Prop. 21, they say, "will preserve your right as a parent to have your children attend schools in the neighborhood where you choose to live."

The measure would add to the state Education Code the following paragraph: "No public school student shall because of his race, creed, or color be assigned to or be required to attend a particular school."

In addition, Prop. 21 would nullify other code sections stating that it is the policy of the state to prevent and eliminate racial imbalance in the schools, and providing guidelines for districts to aid them in carrying out that policy.

Opponents respond that present law permits school boards to "plan ahead to solve severe racial integration problems." Boards would lose this ability if Prop. 21 becomes law, they say.

FURTHERMORE, opponents argue, the U.S. Supreme Court, in a unanimous decision written by Chief Justice Warren Burger, last year declared the same wording as Prop. 21 unconstitutional in a North Carolina case.

The measure also would be violative of another U.S. Supreme Court ruling of 1954 and California Supreme Court rulings of 1963 and 1971, opponents charge.

Even if the measure ment of pupils would be removed from local districts if Prop. 21 passes.

Even if the measure were not unconstitutional, the NAACP says, approval would immediately cut California off from more than $330 million in federal funds, available each year through programs containing strict anti-segregation clauses. If the measure ultimately is declared unconstitutional, the state would have lost the federal funds during the period, possibly years, when the issue was being contested in the courts.

Opponents, including John Cimolillo, president of the California School Boards' Assn., Mrs. Erna Schuling, president of the League of Women Voters, and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Anselmo, say passage would probably result in court-ordered busing anyway.

Defeat of the proposal would permit California schools to attempt to achieve racial balance in a number of ways, one of which, until now schools can be built and attendance lines redrawn, might be busing, opponents say.

SINCE they point out, California must build a thousand or so new schools before 1975 to replace schools which do not meet earthquake safety standards, districts will have the opportunity to locate the new schools where they could naturally have racially balanced student populations, in keeping with present state policy.

Prop. 21 would threaten this possibility by removing the policy statement from the education code, opponents say.

Bay Area group sees Prop. 20 as 'disaster'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Saying it would mean economic disaster around the Bay, the San Francisco Bay Area Council has announced it opposes Prop. 20, the Coastal Initiative.

The council said in a statement Friday that the specific provisions of the initiative would create a "de facto moratorium over development within the permit area."

Sierra Club urges 'yes' on Props. 20, 4; 'no' on 14, 3, 8

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Sierra Club urged Californians Friday to vote "yes" on the coastal initiative and two-year legislative session and "no" on the Watson tax initiative and two measures dealing with pollution control equipment.

Lowell Smith of Los Altos, chairman of the club's California legislative committee, announced the conservation organization's positions on five measures on the November ballot.

Prop. 20, the coastal initiative, which has been the club's number one priority for several years, is essential "because the accessible quantity, quality and control of the coast has deteriorated," the committee said.

On Prop. 4, which would change the legislative calendar from one-year sessions to two-year sessions, the club said it favored the change "because it should help expedite legislative business and make easier the passage of major new legislative proposals."

The organization said Prop. 14, the Watson initiative, which would limit property taxes and change the fiscal basis of governmental programs "could have a potentially chaotic impact."

It also opposed Prop. 3, which would allow industry to use the state's power to borrow low-interest money for buying pollution-control equipment, and Prop. 8, which would exempt pollution-control equipment from property taxes and provide state reimbursement for local or regional taxes lost to the exemption.

Freighter told to remove oil

The Panamanian registry freighter Liberty Manufacturer, grounded for six days off Point Fermin, was ordered Friday to begin removing its oil supplies by 11 a.m. today.

There was no indication late Friday that the vessel's owners would comply with the order. Nor was there any word on when they will decide to attempt salvage or declare the 550-foot ship abandoned.

The order to remove the Liberty Manufacturer's oil supplies was issued by Capt. T. L. Roberge, the Coast Guard captain of the Port of Los Angeles. He cited the prospect of a spreading slick from oil leakage.

As a second "boom" was added to confine oil leakage to the immediate area, it was explained that pollution to nearby waters and the coastline might result unless the Liberty Manufacturer is drained of all fuel.

The ship reportedly carries 6,600 barrels of heavy fuel oil.

The oil has been leaking through two holes punched in the ship's double hull when it missed the entrance to the Port of Los Angeles by over a mile last Saturday night and grounded 510 yards off Point Fermin.

The order to salvage or abandon the ship was issued Thursday by Rear Adm. James W. Williams, commandant of the 11th Coast Guard District. The deadline for a decision by the owners was Friday.

Two salvage companies were investigating damage to the hull Friday, according to Lt. (jg) James Beach, Coast Guard special projects officer.

Beach said oil seepage at the moment is minimal — about five gallons per day. But inner and outer oil-containment devices — the outer one 2,000 feet long and eight inches in diameter — floated around the vessel Friday night.

Within the "booms" the oil slick was being pumped aboard a barge by William H. Hutchinson and Sons Co., a Wilmington ship's service firm.

The ship has been stabilized against tides by two bow anchors. But seepage occurs from tides entering and leaving the punctured hull as they rise and fall, it was explained.

Beach said experts attempting to survey salvage possibilities were hampered by poor inspection conditions aboard, where heavily laden cargo holds prevented a close examination of the hull damage from inside.

The 20-year-old breakbulk cargo carrier ran aground off the shoreline approaching the harbor to put ashore two crewmen injured in a fight at sea, one seriously.

SOVIET GRAIN DEAL

he wasn't in that kind of an agency.

Little by little, Sosland, the Financial Times, and media throughout the world reported details of the grain purchases in late July and in August. As details of the purchases became known, grain prices rose sharply. Most of the increases came in August, late enough for the exporters to fill out Soviet orders.

Sosland writes in his article that he did not print much of the information provided by Mr. Smith. He could not get the size of the claimed sales confirmed by the companies when he "ran the figures by them."

But later, when exporters registered for American subsidies, the figures were born out.

In late July, after the Russians had made their second buying trip to New York, Smith called with the amount of purchasing and a breakdown of the bought commodities. He also told Sosland that the Russians would be coming back soon to buy more on a third trip because they wanted to beat the Chinese who would be buying grain.

That, too, became history a week later. Even the reasons given were later confirmed.

AGAIN, Sosland said, he checked with the grain companies but they denied knowing about a third, pending trip. They were alerted, however, of possibly more trading — by Sosland.

Grain prices rose substantially and steadily from mid-July through August when information about the grain sale became known. It was in August when the prices rose way above the agreed to world price of 1.63 to 1.65 a bushel for wheat which the Russians paid.

Sen George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, has charged big grain dealers were given "advance, inside information" on pending U.S.-Soviet grain trading because of "cozy" relations between the USDA and the giant grain firms.

Secretary of Agriculture

Earl Butz has emphatically denied these charges. As the grain story unfolds, Butz's assertions that the USDA knew nothing of the size of the grain buying until export subsidies were registered appears incredibly accurate.

"IT IS a cockeyed story, it is true," stated a Financial Times writer in Washington Friday. "The government, at least the Department of Agriculture, could not have known all of the details."

"If you examine this story carefully you can't help but see that one of the big profiteers was the Kremlin, not George McGovern's farmers," he said.

Sosland and the Washington correspondent for the Financial Times agreed that keeping the grain buying secret served the purposes of the Soviets as well as the grain buyers.

But they disagree on how much information the grain companies may have had or were capable of having when the Soviets were moving in and out of the country on grain buying expeditions.

WHO WAS Mr. Smith an agent for?

That is anyone's guess.

"I can't speculate on Mr. Smith," Sosland said Friday. "That matter is being checked on, you might guess, and I bet you can."

He did not say whether it was federal authorities who have been doing the "checking."

The Financial Times indicated Friday that it had not been queried by any governmental agencies about its calls from Mr. Smith.

It is more than mildly fascinated, however. Before the calls ended, Smith was telling the Financial Times what Sosland would be publishing the next day, and Sosland learned what the Financial Times would report the next day.

Smith, possibly, could have been an anti-American, seeking to bust up the grain talks. Or he could have been anti-Soviet, seeking to drive off Soviet buying and money by raising American prices through releasing information.

OR WAS he Chinese, seeking to hinder the grain and intensive trade agreements talks between the two super powers? And what's to say he wasn't an in-house spy among the exporters of the world trying to block sales that his company may have been missing out on?

Those questions are unanswerable. But his knowledge of what was going on in the negotiating rooms of the exporting firms would indicate he has close contact either with the Soviet negotiators or the American sellers.

Sosland writes that his last comment to this mystery man was, "don't get hit by a truck."

He added, "That was a sincere wish for someone who is in a hazardous occupation and has unusually good sources of information. He was a real joy to visit with, spy or not."

Big GM strike could paralyze '73 output

By United Press International

Strikes by more than 14,500 workers at three General Motors Corp. assembly plants Friday threatened to paralyze the automaker's entire 1973 model production line, just as sales figures hit record levels.

Workers at GM assembly plants in Mansfield, Ohio; Doraville, Ga., and St. Louis, Mo., walked off their jobs early Friday morning charging the nation's No. 1 automaker with altering production standards and stalling negotiations on a new local agreement with the General Motors Assembly Division (GMAD).

Workers at three other GM assembly plants said they would walk off their jobs no later than next Friday if production standard disputes continued.

An Oct. 19 strike deadline was set for GM's Fairfax, Kan., plant and Oct. 20 deadlines were set at the Arlington, Tex., and Janesville, Wis., plants.

A strike at a Van Nuys plant was averted with an early morning settlement.

IN ANOTHER automotive dispute, about 6,500 hourly employees threatened to walk off their jobs at the Ford Motor Co. parts manufacturing plant in Sterling Heights, Mich.

The United Auto Workers local accused Ford of violating health and safety regulations. A Ford spokesman said a strike at the plant could paralyze assembly plants across the nation and hinder 1973 model production.

A GM spokesman said the strike at its Fisher body stamping plant at Mansfield could virtually paralyze GM assembly operations as it supplies parts for all 1973 models except the Pontiac Firebird and Chevrolet Camaro.

"Continuation of the strike will result in the curtailment of nearly the entire automotive production throughout the corporation, and also affect many thousands of outside firms," the spokesman said.

The strikes came less than two weeks after UAW Vice President Irving Bluestone threatened the union would "have to take steps" if GM continued "targeting in" on local unions and causing long strikes.

BLUESTONE charged GMAD Sept. 29 with provoking a 174-day strike at the Norwood, Ohio, plant — the longest in the automaker's history — by delaying settlement on a new contract.

"We will not permit GMAD to target in on one membership and keep them out on strike as long as they did at Norwood, Ohio," Bluestone told a news conference.

"Whether it (targeting) is deliberate or not, I don't know," Bluestone said. "What is obvious is that they are too often for us not to believe that something is going on."

"We cannot and will not allow GMAD to carry on like it is," said Bluestone.

The strikes also hit as the automaker released figures showing new car sales at record levels. GM said sales so far this year are 7.7 per cent higher than the same selling period in 1971.

The main Fisher body stamping plant was struck at Mansfield at 12:01 a.m. Friday when 2,350 members of UAW Local 549 walked out in a dispute over work standards.

The strike could ripple into a work stoppage for nearly all of the 400,000 GM hourly workers in North America, GM said.

PICKET lines formed at the St. Louis assembly plant early Friday where about 8,500 hourly workers, members of UAW Local 25, are charging GMAD with a delaying agreement on a new contract.

Standard-size Chevrolets, Corvettes and Chevy and GMC trucks are manufactured at the St. Louis plant.

At GM's Doraville plant, some 3,700 workers left their jobs, charging the automaker with production standard changes. GM attributed the changes to new model startups.

The UAW and GM have been haggling over production changes, discipline, layoffs and new agreements since GMAD was formed to handle all the production and assembly operations of the nation's No. 1 automaker.

36 endangered condors sighted

BAKERSFIELD (UPI)

Officials of the eighth Annual California Condor Count Friday reported sighting at least 36 of the king-sized buzzards, largest of North American birds, and warned that the condors continue "in serious danger of becoming extinct."

About 30 biologists and bird lovers spent Wednesday and Thursday perched in 20 locations throughout the mountains rimming the southern San Joaquin Valley peering through field glasses for the majestic birds whose wingspan reaches nine feet.

Oil slick seeping into Lake Powell

PIUTE FARMS, Utah (AP)

— Newsmen flying over the area reported that a portion of a miles-long oil slick seeped into the emerald waters of Lake Powell Friday despite a boom of styrofoam logs that had been thrown up in an effort to stop it.

But Chief Ranger Bob White of the Glen Canyon National Recreation Area said the oil had not yet reached the boom and the newsmen probably mistook driftwood that was being moved through the booms for oil on the surface. "It's a logical mistake," he said.

WHITE said at noon the oil was still a mile upstream from the booms and would arrive there by afternoon. He said he also had flown over the area in the morning.

White said the driftwood collects where the San Juan River pours into the lake and was being moved downstream through the booms so that it would be out of the way when the oil arrived.

He said that the first boom, called a skimmer, was made of styrofoam logs and had a fabric skirt to help stop the oil. A second boom line of logs was being put into place at noon and a third skimmer was due to be in place by about 3 p.m., White said.

Meanwhile, the company whose pipeline ruptured, and caused the oil to enter the water 100 miles upstream began cleanup operations that included burning any oil on the surface of the river. The company said appropriate government agencies approved the burning by crews and boats moving downstream.

The company and federal parks officials had hoped to stop the oil's progress before it could reach more heavily used portions of the lake, which is part of the scenic Glen Canyon National Recreation Area.

THE PIUTE Farms area, 45 miles downstream from Mexican Hat, is an isolated part of the recreation area.

Texas-New Mexico Pipeline Co., a subsidiary of Texaco, said more booms were being erected across the water near Piute Farms and that a drag line and bulldozer were being barged to the site to dig an offshore pit into which trapped crude oil could be diverted.

Federal Environmental Protection Agency officials also were en route to the booms site today.

The company also said that the pipeline had been repaired and was back in service.

of mining Communist harbors.

He also said there are no plans for Kissinger or Haig to meet with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Thieu's return to Hanoi was viewed as a signal that North Vietnamese leaders were at a point where major decisions are required. And it was seen as an indication that there could be a month-long pause in the private talks, perhaps until after the Nov. 7 election.

Previously, when Thieu returned to Hanoi via Moscow and Peking, about a month elapsed before he returned to Paris. As he left Friday, newsmen asked whether he would be returning to the French capital. "If the occasion comes up, I will return," he replied.

He reportedly assured diplomats in Paris that he would be returning, although it could not be determined when.

Ziegler would not say when the private talks might resume. "If and when any meetings are held we will announce them," he said.

Kissinger and Haig returned Thursday from the most extensive talks yet with Hanoi's negotiators in the 19 secret meetings since the start of the Nixon administration.

They reported to Nixon Thursday night and again at a one-hour, 15-minute breakfast in front of a crackling fireplace in the White House family dining room Friday.

This was Haig's first direct participation in the Paris talks, and since the journey to France came shortly after he held extensive discussions with Thieu in Saigon, there has been widespread speculation that negotiations were centering on the makeup of the South Vietnamese government after the war ends.

Thieu has repeatedly denounced the Communist proposal for a tripartite government, saying "coalition means death."

Defense pursues 'maniac' theory Corona judge blocks query

FAIRFIELD (UPI)

The judge in the Juan Corona trial Friday blocked defense attempts to question a sheriff's detective about the possibility of homosexuality in the mass murders.

Judge Richard Patton twice sustained prosecution objections when defense attorney Richard Hawk asked Sutter County Sheriff's Capt. John Purcell whether he had made an examination to determine whether one of the victims might have been involved in a homosexual act.

Hawk posed the questions after Purcell testified under direct examination that the dirt-caked fourth victim was wearing only a shirt and shorts when his body was dug up.

"Did you examine him to see if, in any way, he had been engaged in homosexual activity?" Hawk asked.

"No, I didn't," Purcell said before direct prosecutor Bart Williams objected.

"Wouldn't whether or not the victim had been engaged in a homosexual act be evidence?" Hawk said.

Purcell's reply was cut off by the judge.

The defense attorney contended the 25 murders with which Corona was charged were committed by a "homosexual maniac" and his client was a "normal, healthy person."

Earlier the captain denied a defense charge that the sheriff's office rearranged its records to show that meat receipts signed by Corona were found with a "fresh" body.

Purcell said records showing that the receipts were found in the third grave atop the body of Melvin Sample were accurate.

The receipts, dated May 21, 1971, or four days before the body was found, were crucial to the state's case. The third victim, officers testified previously, was "bleeding from the head" when lifted out of the grave.

Inferring that the receipts were planted to implicate Corona, the defense said a victim killed prior to the date shown on the receipts actually was found in the third grave.

Nisei community entertains crews of Japanese destroyers

By BUCK LANIER
Military Editor

Two Japanese destroyers are visiting Long Beach this weekend and Southern California's Japanese-American community has turned out in full force to entertain the crews.

The Katori, a training ship, and the Mochizuki arrived at Pier 9 Friday and received a traditional Japanese flower welcome from the Japanese Women's Society of Southern California.

Rear Adm. Nobutoshi Ishikura responded on behalf of the 750-man training squadron, which includes 160 new ensigns who are learning the ropes on the squadron's extended voyage.

Since leaving Yokosuka last June 7 the ships have called at Midway Island, Balboa, Canal Zone; Cartagena, Colombia; Rio de Janeiro; Santos, Buenos Aires; Ganya, Chile; Balboa again and then to Long Beach. They'll go home by way of Honolulu and arrive there Nov. 7.

The admiral is a native of Yokkaichi, Long Beach's sister city in Asia.

The vessels are part of Japan's Maritime Self-Defense Force, totaling 150 ships and about 40,000 personnel.

"The journey helped widen the horizons of most of the men aboard," the admiral said, "for up until now they have not had the opportunity to leave their homes."

Both ships will be open for visiting today from 9-11:30 a.m. and 1:30-4 p.m. They leave for Japan Sunday morning.

Lack of standards cited Ecology-impact ruling confuses L.B. planners

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Chaos and confusion — both words were used Friday at a Long Beach Planning Commission meeting to describe the aftermath of the recent State Supreme Court ruling that both private and public projects must file environmental impact statements.

"There are no standards," said Deputy City Atty. Arthur Honda. "We don't know what authority the Planning Commission has, beyond reviewing the EIS."

"The staff will continue to stagger blindly down this path," Assistant Planning Director Carl Moores said ruefully.

ARTHUR GUY, for contractor David Cardinali, who had submitted an environmental report on an 86-unit condominium at 2601 E. Ocean Blvd., complained that there aren't even any professional standards for an environmentalist.

This point also concerned Commissioner Dwight E. Bennett, who said he could see where an unethical person could submit a report which would "present a thorough, comprehensive, statistical basis that would justify an oil refinery in the downtown civic center."

Honda said that a District Court of Appeal in San Francisco ruled that a local planning agency has no authority under the act to judge the adequacy of an environmental report.

IF THE planners suggested a change and the builder declined to make it, there appears nothing the planners could do, Honda said.

"Everyone concedes that the Supreme Court has dropped a bombshell," he said.

Honda told commissioners the attorney's office "doesn't like to hedge" when asked questions about the environmental aspects of projects, but that it has to because of the lack of information.

Moores said the city planning staff has called state officials for guidelines, but "they are unwilling to do anything at staff level." State administrators are waiting for the Legislature to act, he said.

I, P-T ad worth barking about

Independent, Press-Telegram classified ads specialize in many things—including reuniting lost dogs and their masters.

ASKED BY students if he favored Proposition 19, which would legalize private possession of marijuana, he said that he opposed it on grounds that it was hard to take action against drivers who were intoxicated on marijuana.

Whenever you find lost articles or animals, call HE 2-5959 for a free "found" ad. It will make the owner happy.

"There is no known test to identify the amount of intoxicating agent in a person's blood stream," Busch said.

"Legalizing marijuana would be premature until there are such tests."

Busch said he would debate his opponent, Vincent T. Bugliosi, if Bugliosi apologized for personal attacks against Busch.

Stereo speakers and a television set, totally valued at $100, were taken from the apartment of Gene Gin, 1708 Pine Ave., by burglars who ripped open a window screen to gain entry, Long Beach police said Friday.

officer for Union Bank, which is financing the Cardinali condominium project, said the lack of guidelines has created "chaos" in financial circles.

Union Bank and other lending institutions are being "very cautious" in advancing money to developers in light of the environmental impact uncertainty, he said.

Cardinali's environmental impact statement was approved by the commission on recommendation of the planning staff, which said it would have "no measurable impact on air, water, wildlife, noise and vegetation."

"The visual impact, as assessed by the staff is negative, but has already been termed acceptable by the Planning Commission," the report said.

Bennett said he thinks the present procedure on environmental impact statements is "poor," although he said he was not finding fault with Cardinali's request.

"Frankly, the applicant has had a gun at his head — with several fingers on the trigger," he said.

Bennett suggested that the commission meet in a special session to set up at least some temporary guidelines on environmental impact statements.

Honda said the State Supreme Court ruling seems to indicate that the airing of the reports at least shows that consideration is being given to environmental matters.

"The implication is that even with a negative report, a person could go ahead and start building, and take a chance that a lawsuit might be filed by a third party," Honda said.

Separate city college board foe details case

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

In a touch-all-bases speech Friday, school board member James H. Gray outlined his case against Proposition GG — the controversial Nov. 7 ballot question which determines if Long Beach City College gets its own Board of Education.

Gray, who used no statistical charts, was candid in his talk at the Elks Club to an audience of about 50 guests and members of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce Women's Council. Chamber directors voted last month to oppose the measure.

GRAY ASSESSED Proposition GG from the vantage points of a man who wears "four hats" — board member, businessman, taxpayer and parent. Wearing a "board hat" in a figurative sense, he evoked laughter by commenting:

"I could show you statistics upon statistics that would prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that costs would skyrocket upon separation. At the same time, GG's proponents could whip out other statistics that could unequivocally convince you that no increase in operating costs is necessary."

"TO SAVE us from all that," he continued, "we know where we are at LBCC — we rank 60th out of 68 California community colleges in costs; San Diego is 57th, Glendale, 63 and Santa Monica 65. Blythe ranks 25th in cost per student."

Voters in the other districts also will decide next month between one board or two in their communities. California's remaining 63 community college districts are governed separately from kindergarten-grade 12 school systems.

Gray turned to a significant campaign question — "Do students receive more under a separate board?" and answered his rhetorical question, "I think not."

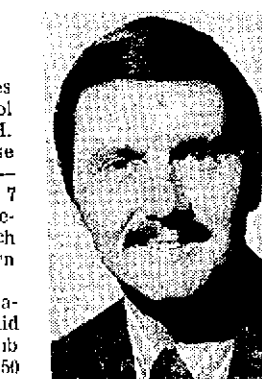

As evidence that "LBCC students receive education vastly superior to those available in most separate board districts," he cited the records of local graduates when applying for work or transferring to a four-year school and maximum professional accreditations regularly given the school.

"If a combined board has gotten maximum mileage with your tax dollars," said Gray, who operates an auto agency, "does it make sense to take a chance of increasing costs by establishing more bureaucracy?"

Gray disputed claims that the present board has not spent enough time on City College problems.

"It's not the amount of time a board member spends that counts," he said, describing the long hours members spend on college affairs.

"As a business person," Gray said, "I have reserately from kindergarten-grade 12 school systems.

Apologizing with a grin for "using statistics after all," Gray said "These colleges with combined boards and, more importantly, shared costs, rank at the low end of the cost-per-student scale."

Fleet Reserve leader will speak at seminar

Robert Nolan, national executive secretary of the Fleet Reserve Association, is among the speakers at the seminar for retired naval personnel which is being held today from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Long Beach Naval Station's Club Mariner.

The seminar will outline recommendations of the Secretary of the Navy's Advisory Committee as they pertain to retirement policies and other matters of particular interest to fleet reservists and those on the retired list.

Members of the Fleet Reserve Association include active duty and retired personnel of the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard. The associations about possibly increasing school costs by forming a separate board and by duplicating services... It would cost you more for a bar of soap if Procter separated from Gamble, and it would cost the subscriber more if the Independent was totally separated from the Press-Telegram."

"It is imperative we weigh very carefully any financial commitments," he said, "but this does not mean we should deny LBCC something that it really needs — something that would provide a good return on taxpayers' investments in education."

Gray said that as a parent he is "concerned about my children's education. I want what's best for my children and yours. I have repeatedly asked, 'Exactly what will Prop. GG do to improve education?' I have yet to get more than nebulous claims about LBCC joining the mainstream of higher education."

"THERE IS no indication, at least so far, that GG will in any way improve education," he said, "Just the opposite may result. Spending more and more for administration, purchasing, maintenance and other expensive central services could very well leave less for education."

Gray will speak at noon Monday to a meeting of the Greater Lakewood Chamber of Commerce in Lakewood Center's Forum Cafeteria.

Busch says charges pending on Prop. 22 petition circulators

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

The district attorney's office plans next week to bring felony charges against some circulators of initiative petitions for Proposition 22, the ballot measure which would curb farm labor strikes, Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch said Friday.

Catholic Daughters' celebration planned

The Lakewood Court of the Catholic Daughters of America will celebrate a proclamation by Mayor Mark Hannaford honoring their group by participating this weekend in the annual fiesta at St. Cyprian's Church, 4174 Clark Ave., Long Beach.

Hannaford's proclamation designates Sunday as Catholic Daughters Day.

The St. Cyprian's fiesta, which includes a social fair with games, booths and rides, will run from noon to 9 p.m. today and from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday.

Coins 'collected'

A coin collection valued at $200 was taken from the home of Pauline Crocker, 3620 E. Sixth St., by burglars who forced open the front door, Long Beach Police said Friday.

Busch, appointed DA 20 months ago, spoke to 100 students at Long Beach State University. He is running for election to the district attorney's post.

Proposition 22 would outlaw harvest-time strikes and most secondary boycotts of agricultural products.

According to Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., persons circulating petitions to place the measure on the November ballot used fraud in gathering signatures, employed children as petition circulators and forged signatures.

"We're looking for the people behind the petition circulators," Busch said.

"We'll also prosecute the people who were paid to circulate the petitions if they knowingly engaged in illegal activities."

He said that 10 of his investigators had turned up evidence of circulators forging names of persons picked from telephone books and of deliberately misleading voters they approached for signatures.

"Unfortunately, some of the people we'd like to prosecute have gained immunity by appearing before legislative committees," he said.

Nevertheless, he said, "we anticipate filing felony criminal charges within the week against persons who used illegal means to obtain signatures."

Special fire fighting techniques on display

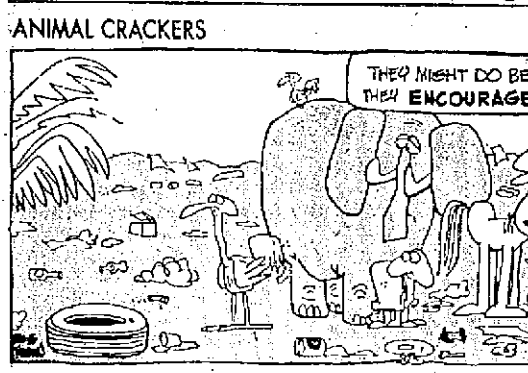

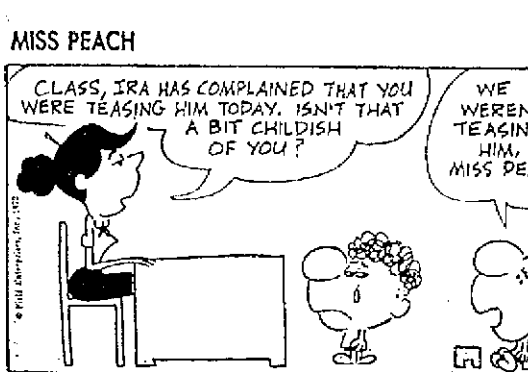

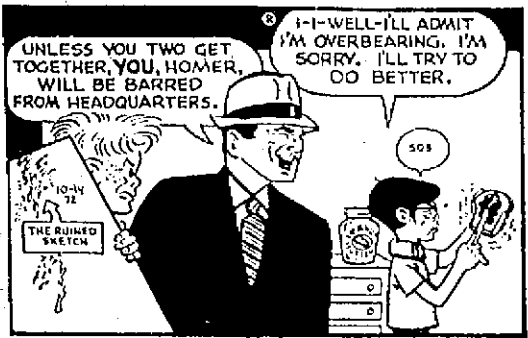

Simulations of a refinery fire and techniques employed in responding to an airplane crash will be featured at 12:30 p.m. today when the Long Beach Fire Department conducts a two-hour show for the public at its training center, 2249 Oregon Ave.

The show is part of the observance of Fire Prevention Week.

Also on the program will be fire extinguisher drills and fire prevention tips for homeowners, the appearance of Smokey the Bear, equipment exhibits and free refreshments.

Stereo, TV units lost to burglar

Stereo speakers and a television set, totally valued at $100, were taken from the apartment of Gene Gin, 1708 Pine Ave., by burglars who ripped open a window screen to gain entry, Long Beach police said Friday.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today! Now is a time for extensive efforts to make the most of your skills, learn all you can by pragmatic application. Today's natives do, however, share tenacity of purpose, and an interest in the dramatic arts.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Once you've completed a minimum of participation in community formalities, get away from it all, find something pleasant to do.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Putting extra energy into any work complicates matters. Live this Sunday as a holiday instead of just time off from work.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Budget both your strength and your money; it's a long day replete with lively suggestions, eager friends, temptations to overdo.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Ordinary methods don't bring marked results; if you have a task to work out, use all the influence you can bring to bear.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): From an uneven start the day unwinds into a fairly successful Sunday. If you must travel, do so with care and caution.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Get a common opinion on what is to be done. Don't be surprised if nobody wants to do anything that takes much exertion.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Now is not the time to talk about what you are going to do later. Pursue quieter, less strenuous forms of sports, fun and games.

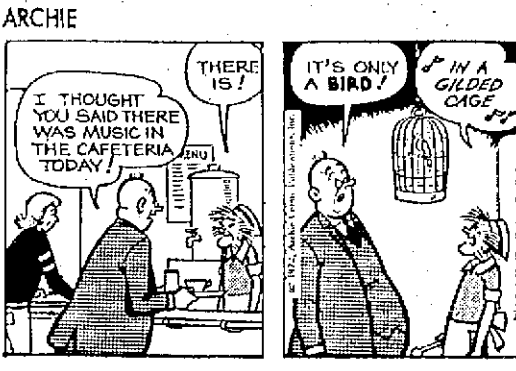

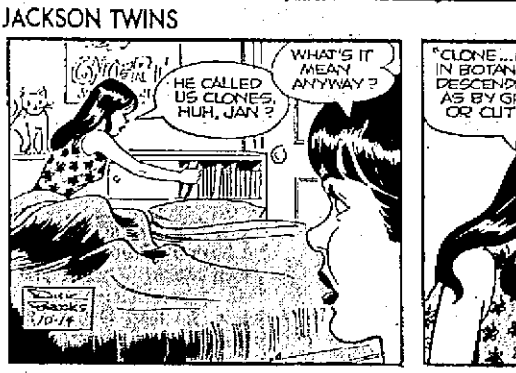

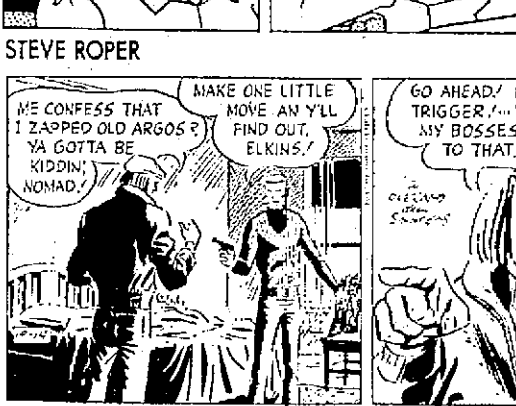

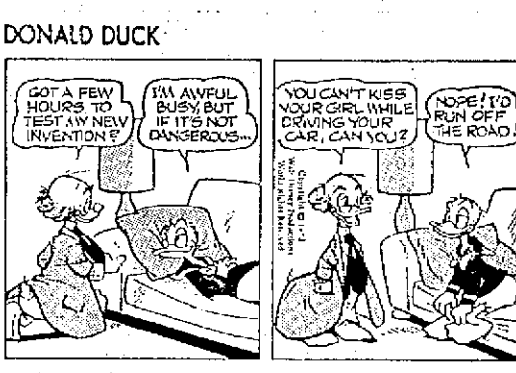

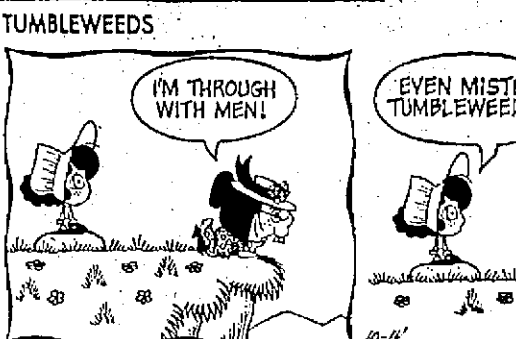

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Bright and early do what is expected of you by your community, then out of it all for a leisurely day. Mind your own concerns.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Striving for close social and sports contact brings tensions to the surface. As leisurely as you can make it is fast enough.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Select your companions, then go along with their group projects instead of trying to enforce your own detailed schemes.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): This isn't your day to force any issues or try bringing agreements to finality. Get some rest, find time for meditation.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Have patience with diverging views and moods of nearby everybody. Avoiding crowded places is another suggestion.

NEW FASHION FOR TULIPS

By JOE LITTLEFIELD
A botanist in 1634 brought from the Orient some rare plant specimens to his homeland, Holland, where they were unknown. They were wild tulips.
The bulbs were planted in the garden. The showy flowers excited all who saw them. Some viewers offered as much as $50.00 for a bulb. He turned down all offers. But the bulbs were stolen. This episode, so the story goes, is what started the Tulip mania.

GOODS and money were bartered for the bulbs. One of the offers, valued at $1,200, consisted of oxen, wine, beer, sheep, rye, cheese, clothes, silver beaker and a bed. (Money was worth m-u-c-h more those days!) One tulip bulb was traded for 1,200 acres of land.

Luckily for gardeners today, the most expensive tulip listed in one of the seed-bulb catalogs costs only thirty three cents. The least expensive sell for fifteen cents each. Quantity purchase lowers the cost.

The tulips have been greatly improved. Gardeners now have a wide-range choice of flowers and shapes.

Fosterianan hybrids have long stemmed exceptionally large flowers. Greigii hybrids have long lasting blossoms. The Early Doubles' blooms are peony-like, large and full. The old dependable standbys but greatly improved are the Early Singles, May-Cottage, and the longer stemmed Darwins. Clusiana, Kaufmanniana earliest bloomer of all tulips, and Stresa are the other early tulip species.

The other types are the Chinese Lantern, Giant Parrot with lacinated, attractively fringed petals, giant Double Peony with large peony-like blooms, Lily Flower tulips, Fringed tulips with lace-like edges found in no others, and the Bouquet with three or more branches on each stem. Although one nursery may not have all types of tulips described, the bulbs are obtainable.

WHOLESALE bulb growers recommend that tulips and Dutch hyacinths should be refrigerated in the dairy products compartment of the refrigerator for at least three weeks before planting them in the garden or in pots.

Winter will spend what summer lends.

Dogs bay most now... Albert Einstein arrived in U.S. from Germany Oct. 17, 1938... Pull Hunter's Moon Oct. 22... U.S. Congressional Church founded Oct. 22, 1835... Pumpkins best now, and pease fly south... Average length of days for week, 10 hours, 53 minutes... Had news on the 22nd... If the 16th is dry, so will be next spring... Charity begins at home but shouldn't end there.
Old Farmer's Riddle: Why is an angry person like a bent needle. (Answer below.)

Ask the Old Farmer: Walking around our cornfield, I asked my brother, "Do you hear that?" He said, "Hear what?" "The corn growing," I said. He told me I was daffy. But now I understand the sound of corn growing has been put on tape. E. L. Lima, Ohio.

We are not certain about the tape. In our boyhood, men planted pumpkins amongst the corn. Once the pumpkins vines started to grow, they really made headway. We have heard one rustling and dragging along the ground many a time. We wonder if it was pumpkin vines that the writer heard?

Home Hints: Roll on your fingers when cleaning food or fish prevents hands from slipping... Put oranges and lemons in warm water for a few minutes and then roll them on the counter. Socking them this way makes them yield much more juice... Riddle answer: A bent needle has lost its temper.

Garden Clinic

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Q. — I had a new Kentucky blue grass lawn put in last fall and was told to plant some dichondra seeds in April which was done. The back yard was left with devil grass and some dichondra. The lawn in back is half dead from oxalis and which now is starting in front. What on earth can kill it? The nursery has material but I was told that it would kill dichondra etc. Can you help? Mrs. Eugene Provost Jr. 2625 Radnor ave., Long Beach 90815.

A. — Ask your nurseryman if any of his customers have used Oxalis-X. Ask what results were obtained and whether he recommends it. If he rejects this solution, ask him about Chakembo's oxalis control. Being a liquid form it is easier for home gardeners to use.

One of the old-time tricks to control oxalis was to begin mowing the lawn very low early in the spring. It was to be fertilized lightly every three weeks and kept moist. The mowing had to be done at weekly intervals throughout the growing season. A teacher of horticulture at Bell Gardens Senior High School showed me his lawn after such a treatment. Devil grass and oxalis had been overcome.

Oxalis can come from the neighbor's yard on either side of you. A child, salesman, even a pet can spread it by walking over neighboring lawns. The pods can scatter the seeds six feet. The last resort is to kill off the whole lawn and start again.

tion, women and young people welcome, and an opportunity for questions and answer after the talk.

SIGNS OF the modestly growing role of women in the church world were in evidence last week at the sixth biennial convention of the American Lutheran Church in Minneapolis.

Eighty six women were among the official delegates, largest number ever. They came from each of the ALC's 18 geographical districts.

The first woman to run for a national ALC officer, Birgit Birkeland, of the denomination's Division of College Education, finished second in a field of five in the race for secretary. (The incumbent won out.)

A major report being considered by the convention is titled "Men and Women in Church and Society." An overenthusiastic proposal to set equal quotas for men, women and clergy as officers on church councils and committees was defeated. Instead, Rev. Dr. Carl P. Reuss, director of the Commission on State and Society, told delegates at the open hearing that the report was changed to provide that nominating committees "take active steps to bring women significantly into leadership roles in the church."

The consensus was that this philosophy is now being followed at national and district levels. But several women in attendance pointed out that a number of ALC congregations neither allow women to vote nor to hold office.

L.B. WELCOME FOR METHODIST BISHOP GOLDEN

A reception honoring Methodist Bishop Charles F. Golden and presenting him and Mrs. Golden to the Long Beach district and to the community, will be held Monday starting 7 p.m. in California Heights Church, 3759 Orange Ave.

Bishop Golden is the new resident bishop of the Southern California-Arizona Conference of the 11-million-member United Methodist Church, succeeding Bishop Gerald Kennedy, who has retired.

SPEAKING OF Preus, he has received solid backing in his attack on the teachings of the Missouri Synod's main seminary, Concordia, by the influential conservative evangelical publication "Christianity Today."

In an editorial entitled "Missouri: Peace In Our Time?" the magazine says in part: "Neither Preus nor anyone else would deny that the teaching at Concordia is generally more conservative than at most Protestant seminaries. But the biggest question is not where Concordia stands on the theological spectrum but where it stands on the inspiration and authority of Scripture and the objective truth of basic biblical doctrine..."

"The conflict shaping up for 1973 will be rugged," the editorial concludes, "but if the Missouri Synod tries to escape it by uttering evangelical platitudes and ignoring Preus' facts, it may well mean the end of Missouri as a confessing church—and another addition to the long list of denominations whose chief agreement consists of not knowing what to believe."

Catholics study entry in National Council

By LES RODNEY

One short decade ago, the very idea of Roman Catholic membership in the National Council of Churches would have been laughable.

This week, exactly ten years after the Second Vatican Council began its portentous sessions, every Catholic parish in the United States received a study-discussion guide to help both "religious" and laity consider a report which recommends such membership.

Before Vatican II, the Catholic view of Christian unity, unchanged since the Reformation, could be simply summed up in the phrase "return to Rome." That thinking has been abandoned, along with the phrase itself. In addition to opening the door to a turbulent transformation in the inner life of the Catholic Church, Vatican II also proclaimed the principle of religious liberty for all, and recognized the true dimensions of the Christian church outside of Roman Catholicism.

The view of possible development toward unity is now one of a mutually moving convergence, with mutual respect.

Catholic membership in the National Council would not mean Christian unity, or anything like it. Belonging to the cooperative agency does not entail the surrender of any church's distinctive beliefs or traditions. Yet such membership would certainly signal a new phase in the relationships between Protestants and Catholics in this country. It would also, as candidly noted in the joint report, pose some knotty problems.

The National Council of Churches is currently composed of 33 denominations which have a combined membership of about 42 million. It is predominantly Protestant, with a minority of Eastern Orthodox bodies. The Roman Catholic Church in the United States has a nominal membership of some 48 million, more than the combined total of all the rest. So Catholic membership would obviously call for a restructuring of the Council system of "weighting" in voting and in representation on boards.

One might think that there would be some interesting discussions when a National Council with Catholic membership addressed itself to a topic such as birth control.

Actually, the groundwork for possible Catholic membership has begun in the past few years through growing Catholic cooperation with the Council. Exchanges of official observers between the Council and the U.S. Bishops, consultation on joint concerns, and even the presence of priests and nuns on several Council staffs has happened without too much fuss.

Much the same, it can be pointed out, has been true in relations between the Council and the major Protestant denominations which are not members—the Southern Baptists and two of the three Lutheran bodies.)

"Vatican II has effected a revolution in relations between Catholics and other Christian churches in the United States," observes Dr. R. H. Edwin Espy, general secretary of the National Council, who is a Lutheran. "What we are able to do together now was unthinkable not long ago. This is true in terms of theological dialogue, in service to the world, in common approaches to national issues with moral-religious significance and in fellowship manifested by a common life of worship. It's a completely different scene."

The report recommending Catholic membership was completed late last year by a 17-member team from the Council and the Catholic Church. Its major conclusion is that none of the theological and practical problems are insuperable.

Diocesan offices have been asked to schedule meetings by the end of November, to get as much grass roots input as possible.

The Catholic study-discussion guide poses the central question in its introduction: "Broadly considered, the purpose of the Report on Possible Roman Catholic Membership in the National Council of Churches is to focus on the question: would Roman Catholic membership in the Council genuinely and substantially contribute to the unity and mission to which we are called?"

Newsman's novel fills in life of Joseph, the father

JOSEPH, GO HOME! The Story of a Forgotten Carpenter. By Robert Beckman. Exposition Press, $7.50.

Joseph, the Nazareth carpenter whose place in history as Jesus' earthly father is recorded in the New Testament, remains a mystery as far as his life during Christ's three-year ministry.

How did Jesus' preaching affect the old carpenter's life? Did Joseph become involved? What role did the father take? Was he even alive when Jesus began his preaching? What manner of man was Joseph?

In this moving novel, Robert Beckman—a Long Beach newsman and currently business editor of these papers—goes behind the New Testament scenes to tell Joseph's story as he imagines it might have happened. He sees him as a simple carpenter with a father's affection for his son but bewildered by the events about him.

The novel opens just after Jesus, without explanation to his father, has left Nazareth to begin his ministry. Puzzled, Joseph calls on his friend and neighbor, Mahlon, and tells of his decision to go after his son. With Mahlon by his side, Joseph begins a long and weary search for his son, which was to last until near the end of Jesus' ministry.

Joseph's painful search and his thoughts about his wandering son give the reader the feeling he is living a part of unwritten history.

Beckman deftly works the biblical account into his fictional account of Joseph, and few believers will object to the way he handles the truth about the Messiah.

The story of Joseph is told with compassion and understanding; Beckman tells it without trying to shock his readers with some sensational, off-beat material. This is how it may have been. (Bud Worsham).

Noted organist Robert A. Cummings will open the third season of Vesper Concerts at Riviera United Methodist, 375 Palos Verdes Blvd., Torrance, Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

SING AT COLLEGE PARK CHURCH

Popular gospel singers Debbie and Jim Brown, with an instrumental group, will present their program Sunday at 10 a.m. in College Park Church of God, 1901 Palo Verde Ave. They will also appear at the church's annual pancake breakfast at 9 a.m.

Bethel Series at 1st Lutheran

The Bethel Series adult Bible study program is now in progress at First Lutheran Church, 9th and Atlantic. The series is international in scope, being used in 2,515 congregations.

Rev. Roger Hedstrom, assistant pastor, said that nine members of the congregation are involved in the classes.

Commenting on the use of the Bethel Series, Rev. Hedstrom said, "In a time when people throughout our nation are investigating religion and spiritual reality, we feel that this Series will really meet a need. Nine of our congregational family have studied for nearly three years in the Old and New Testament. Now they will be leading classes of 30 through a similar study. The first three classes, which begin Oct. 18, are filled but another Bethel Series class will begin Jan. 10, 1973."

Most Lutherans
Minnesota retains its place as the state with the most Lutherans, according to statistics compiled by the office of research, statistics and archives of the Lutheran Council in the USA. The council reported there were 1,072,402 Lutherans in the North Star state.

Authority on demonism here for 5-day meeting

Dr. Merrill F. Unger, noted conservative Bible scholar and author, will conduct a five-day conference on "Demonism and the Occult" starting Wednesday at Los Altos Brethren Church, 6565 Stearns St.

Nightly meetings at the Long Beach church will be at 7:30 from Wednesday through Saturday, Oct. 18-21, and on Sunday, Oct. 22, at 10:45 a.m., 6 and 8 p.m.

On next Saturday and Sunday evenings, Oct. 21, 22, Barry McGuire, formerly of the Christy Minstrels and composer of the song "Eve of Destruction," who declares he has since converted to Christianity, will take part in the program and will sing.

Confident living
The power to change your life

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

A person can take things lying down or he can stand up and hit them hard. It all depends upon whether he has what it takes. He can meet opposition and resistance successfully if he strongly wills to do so. This is the way to reach impossible goals.

Naturally you have to discipline yourself to do this. It requires conscious control of your thoughts and your actions. But it is a fact that anybody who has the capacity to be disciplinary of himself can exercise an astonishing power of will. You can bring out of yourself an enormous force when you REALLY will to do something.

I HAVE MET some very fascinating people who have had all kinds of obstacles and hazards against them, but by the practice of plain, old will-power they have been able to overcome tremendous odds. Just the other day I received a letter from such a person:

"Dear Dr. Peale: I wonder if you still remember me? I'm the little old lady in your book on page 46. I'm writing you from a hospital bed, for two months ago I had a heart attack, but that hasn't defeated me. I'll be 80 years old next month, and my hand shakes as I am very weak, but please try to understand my writing. Please say a prayer for me to help me make it. I have another little story to finish and send to you, and then my mission will be complete. God gives me His power over everything."

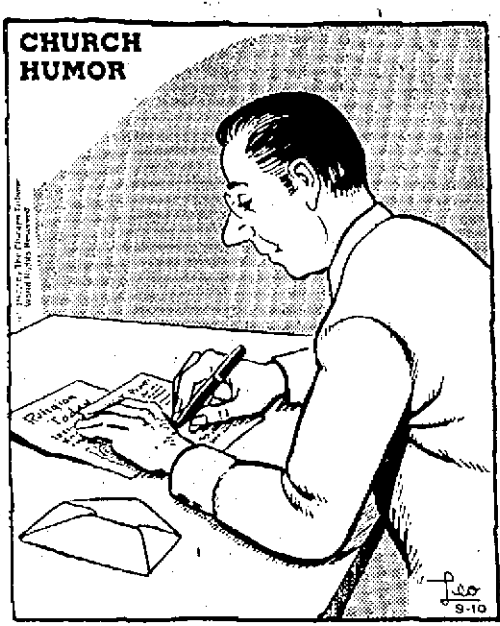

Needless to say I looked on page 46 of every book I had written. When I found the reference and read it I remembered well this remarkable woman with a victory-producing power who had written me 15 years ago, when she was a "little old lady in her late 60s." She had written as follows: "I would like to tell all the ones who have no faith that with the power of faith you can achieve miracles. I was born a cripple with dislocation of both my hips. The doctors said I would never walk, but as I grew up and looked at others walking I asked God to help me."

"One day I tried to stand up between two chairs, and down I went. I was six years old, and my heart was broken. But I wouldn't give up. I tried again and again until I held myself up for a few seconds. I can't describe to you the joy that was in my heart, being able to stand on my feet. I gave a scream to mamma: 'I'm up! I can walk!'"

"Then I went down again. I'll never forget my parents' joy as I tried again. My mother handed me the end of a broomstick while she held the other end and said, 'Give one step forward with one foot and then the other.' My faith helped me to walk. The doctors called it a duck walk, but I have been so grateful ever since."

"Three years ago I had an accident and broke my left ankle. While I was in the hospital they took X-rays of my legs. 'Lady, how did you ever walk?' the doctor said to me. I said God was my doctor. They said it was a miracle for I have no sockets and no joints on my hips. 'How do you stand up?' they asked.

"No, I do not wish to subscribe to Religion Today magazine, but enter my name in your 'BONANZA OF PRAYERS' contest."

"MEMORIES CAME back to me, the many times I tried standing up between the two chairs. I waited 60 years to find out that I have no sockets and joints."

"Then the doctors were afraid that, with the accident and my age, I would not walk again, but God came to my rescue again, and to the surprise of all I'm walking. I'm still holding my job taking care of four children of a widowed mother while she works. I'm a widow too and had to work very hard to grow my children. My husband died with the Spanish flu in 1919. I had two little girls and a son who was born two months after my husband died. I scrubbed floors on my knees for 17 years and never was sick in my life. I don't know what a headache is."

Who says will-power and faith do not work? That "little old lady," as she calls herself, now 80 years old, but still young in spirit, is living proof that it works! She may have had an affliction of the body, but she certainly has no affliction in her mind. She wanted to walk, and she willed to walk. She had the power to change her life.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peale has written a manual intended to show in a practical manner how you can have the power to change your life. For a free copy of this booklet, write: Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, Box X-3, Pawling, New York 12561.

REV. WHITNEY

Presbyterians to install Rev. Whitney

Rev. Dale C. Whitney, who has been serving as interim pastor of Geneva Presbyterian Church for a year, will be formally installed as pastor Sunday at 3 p.m.

A native of Nebraska, Mr. Whitney, 30, graduated from Pomona College and from San Francisco Theological Seminary, and served as assistant pastor in Santa Paula. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Dr. Sherman Skinner, executive of the United Presbyterian Synod of Southern California, with installation by Mrs. Frances Dyer, moderator of the Los Ranchos Presbytery, which includes Long Beach.

Course for black clerics at seminary

Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena is offering a Leadership Institute, designed specifically for black ministers, beginning Monday. The training session continues for eight weeks.

The Institute has been initiated by the Black Advisory Committee of the Seminary. President Hubbard said, "The black church plays a vital role in today's society. As co-laborers in a common ministry, we want to make the resources of Fuller Seminary available to the black church. I believe that as the committee continues its quest for ways of cooperation, new avenues of theological training to ethnic groups will result."

Assistant pastor at St. Timothy

Rev. Mark J. Wikstrom has been installed as assistant pastor, with special responsibility in youth work, at St. Timothy Lutheran Church, 5840 Arbor Road. FROM THE PULPIT Dr. Frank Collins Every day is a part of the test of life, and our judgment at the end of life relates to the whole of life. Every man desires to die a saved man. But to live for Christ is where the gain is: The thief on the cross was saved, but his life was a waste. Someone has said that only one man in the Bible was saved at his death hour so that none may presume, and yet one man was saved that all might have hope. Life is so precious. The thriving business in the doctor's office says that life is precious. The healing institutions over all the land says that life is precious. But age, accidents, funeral parlors and ambulances testify that death is sure. The Bible deals with life - and death - and eternity! And there can be no doubt as to the plan of God for man in all three. Live for Him. Die in Him. Eternity with Him. Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

L.A. Philharmonic due in L.B. tonight

By DAVID LEVINSON
Staff Writer

Those who attend the Los Angeles Philharmonic's concert at Millikan High School in Long Beach at 8:15 p.m. today will hear a program that is rather more exciting than a listing of the works would indicate.

The most spectacular piece — which had its world premiere at a Philharmonic concert at UCLA's Royce Hall on Thursday — is conductor Gerhard Samuel's "Into Flight From."

"THE MUSIC," Samuel explains enigmatically, "has at times to do with flying and fleeing."

It is the sort of thing Schoenberg could have done with his "Gurrelieder" orchestra if sound had been his primary interest. Perhaps if the symphony orchestra is to be a 20th century instrument, this is the music for it: all broad splashes of color, a mind-blowing light show in sound.

Samuel wrote it this summer and dedicated it "to the artist Steven Solberg, who shared my working table on the Oregon coast and whose drawings were doing parallel things." Those must be some spectacular drawings!

Samuel is apparently a dedicated foe of program notes, if not entirely of program music, and neither his title nor his explanation that the work "owes much to the ocean and its multifaceted yet ever horizontal rhythms" provides much clue to the musical experience "Into Flight From" offers. It has to be heard to be believed.

AT THE UCLA concert, cellist Joel Krosnick also played the work he will present in Long Beach tonight. Tchaikovsky's "Variations on a Rococo Theme," Krosnick plays with respect for the dusty sweetness of Tchaikovsky's homage to the Mozart spirit. The young cellist's conviction and humor were matched in the UCLA performance by Samuel's own fine sense of the playful.

That sense stood at UCLA in a Chaplinesque performance of Richard Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks," which will not be on the Long Beach program. Also missing from the Long Beach concert will be another Krosnick solo, Mel Powell's "Setting for Cello," a work in which the serial idiom and the essentially noncontrapuntal style seem mismatched.

T-Rex Slated

Marc Bolan, leader of Reprise Records' T-Rex rock group, will appear Sunday at the Long Beach Auditorium, when his band headlines in concert with The Doobie Brothers during their current American tour. Tickets for the 8 p.m. concert, at $4.50, $5.50 and $6.50, are available at the box office and all ticket outlets.

will be Beethoven's Seventh Symphony.

As at UCLA, the program will include another orchestral work, Johann Christian Bach's Sinfonia in E-flat for Double Orchestra. Samuel's performance Thursday was spirited but lacking in elegance.

Videotape speeds job applicants' interview overseas

ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Financial Editor

Southland executives seeking greener pastures elsewhere no longer need travel to distant cities or countries to make new "connections."

Under a program developed by Ability Search, Inc., Washington, D.C. executive search and recruitment firm with a newly opened Los Angeles office, the job applicant is interviewed by videotape with copies speeded to prospective employers, sometimes halfway around the world.

The technique, called "pre-recruitment" by Mrs. Eva M. June, president of Ability Search, provides a new dimension in the field.

"In this way," she explained "in addition to the usual filled-in resume forms with background material, prospective employees can project their individual personalities. The 'interviews' are short and to the point and the employer can make a selection in a few minutes time."

"Conversely, the prospective employer can also do a bit of 'selling' via video tape to the job seeker on the advantages of locating in his particular area," she said.

Although the majority of the agency's clients are men, Mrs. June observes career women also are showing a desire to "spread their wings" elsewhere. She anticipates an increasing number of inquiries from professional women with the new freedom resulting from the Women's Lib movement.

Mrs. June herself has a most interesting background. Born Eva Maria Teresa Christiana Banyai in 1935, she arrived in Washington in February, 1957 from her native Budapest penniless and unable to speak English.

The daughter of a former Hungarian industrialist, her education was interrupted for a time because of the Nazi occupation and, again, during World War II because of the Allied invasion of Hungary.

She was selected to attend Kando College after the Russian "liberation" to become an electronics technician as part of the country's first five-year plan.

Mrs. June was able to escape to Austria after the failure of the Hungarian revolt against Communist Russia in 1956 and spent nearly six months in refugee camps.

Her first job upon arriving in Washington was as hostess in a restaurant, then as a night club singer, as a media analyst and as a television personality. She married William Lee Devries, a Washington businessman, in 1961 and became the mother of three children.

Being a housewife, however, was not for her and she accepted an offer to head a new recruitment firm, then two years later became vice president of another.

She established Ability Search in 1964 with a $1,000 bank loan.

Served since then, she boasts, have been approximately 100 of Fortune Magazine's 500 leading companies.

Chamber tour

Ernest W. La Belle, executive vice president of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, has reported in from Bielefeld, Germany, one of the last stops of the Chamber's trade mission to Europe.

La Belle, along with Chamber President Bob Westmyer and 40 Long Beach area people, departed Sept. 21 and were due back late this week.

"Our purpose is the same as with our missions to Japan in 1970 and to New Zealand and Australia last year: (1) to put Long Beach area businessmen in touch with their counterparts in other major markets of the world and (2) to increase the awareness of Long Beach as an international city and a major port, tourist and recreation center," La Belle wrote.

"This year there was the additional objective of a reunion with many of the businessmen and families of Bielefeld, West Germany, who were among the 150 who came to Long Beach in September of 1971."

The Sept. 26 editions of the area's Southern Evening Echo, Southampton, carried a three-column picture of Westmyer presenting a friendship plaque to Southampton's Mayor McGuirk.

The Echo's shipping reporter wrote, in part: "Mr. Westmyer spoke of a very deep and warm feeling between the two Queen Mary cities."

Surprising survey

Paul Kolton, president of the American Stock Exchange, reported a survey of 25 brokerage firms reveals plans to move toward more non-securities business and more principal dealings rather than public agency activity.

Commenting on the survey published in the Exchange's American Investor magazine, Kolton said recent reductions in commission rates and the prospect of additional cuts may compel brokerage firms to accelerate plans to emphasize other revenue sources and to reduce public brokerage business. "This, paradoxically, is occurring at a time when Congress, the SEC and the securities industry have all agreed on the need for broad public participation in the market," Kolton said.

He said this development calls for a searching analysis of the structural changes being advocated in many quarters to assure that the nation's investors continue to be properly served in a public marketplace.

The survey of brokerage houses produced these major findings:

Non-securities business is expected to become a significant factor in the revenue picture of member firms during the next two years.

Commission business is shifting toward more institutional sales for many retail and regional firms.

Increased principal activity, as opposed to agency activity, has been projected to continue into 1974.

In agency business, a broker represents a customer as an agent and is compensated by a commission. In principal business, the broker acts as a principal in the transaction and is compensated by trading at a profit for his own account.

The president of one leading brokerage firm remarked, "Further institutionalization and centralization of the marketplace along with another drop in negotiated rates on agency transactions could well push firms into doing more and more principal business — market making, positioning big blocks, getting off more secondaries and exchange distributions, syndication, new issues . . .

However, the survey found there was no unanimity on the question of institutional business because of the negotiated rate structure. One industry source commented, "Those firms shifting their commission emphasis to the institutional side may find that its negative aspects will significantly reduce the envisioned profit dollars."

Amweld's modern plant, showroom opens in L.B.

Amweld, a new company recently established as exclusive Airco Welding Products distributor for the South Bay area, this week opened its newly completed showroom and plant at 3976 Cherry Ave., Long Beach.

Amweld will maintain a complete inventory of Airco manufactured hardware, machines, consumable electrodes and welding wire, officials said.

Also at the site, a modern and efficient industrial gas conversion system has been installed that includes storage of bulk liquid oxygen, nitrogen, argon and "MAPP full gas."

Charles Mehling, president of Amweld, announced a full line of services for the welder and fabricator is being offered, such as full-time equipment maintenance, service and repair of electric welders and flame cutting apparatus, and a complete inventory of welders, cutting machines and automatic tracing devices (rental or emergency).

A staff of 10, with more than 15 years experience in many phases of the welding industry, is on hand, Mehling said.

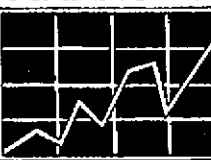

Ralph H. Hogate, who comes to Amweld from Airco, (30-year veteran with Airco Distributors) is in charge of sales and purchasing. Ray Sallen-

eral merchandising manager from Emeryville, attended Thursday's opening ceremonies.

STAMFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Air Express International Corp. has announced a new door-to-door pickup and delivery air parcel system that can deliver a package across the continent in seven and a half hours. A money-back guarantee of on-schedule delivery will be provided, the company said. Air Express International is the parent firm of Wings & Wheels, the freight forwarder.

INDUSTRY WEEK

Boom in automobile sales

The boom in automobile sales and production is brightening the year for the U.S. steel industry.

Taking around 20 per cent of U.S. mill output, Industry Week reported, the auto industry is the biggest steel consumer this year now that construction — usually a big consumer — is lagging markedly.

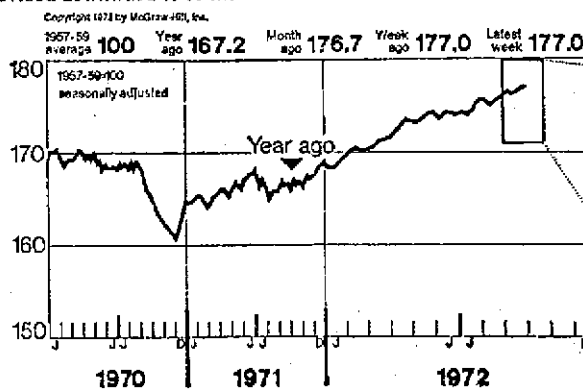

Thanks mainly to the auto industry's performance, raw steel production thus far this year is 2.6 per cent ahead of that in the corresponding period of last year.

In acceleration of the year's uptrend, fourth quarter passenger car output is now projected at 2,364,000 units, second best ever, and sales of U.S.-built autos in the period are forecast at a record level of 2.5 million-plus units.

The automakers, Industry Week said, are boosting their buying of steel accordingly. Orders for October delivery are up about 7 per cent from September's, one steelmaker noted, and November's increase could be comparable, for one steel marketing manager said the auto buy for delivery in November will be "up very significantly."

Despite the lift from the auto industry, the steel industry will have to push hard to attain the levels predicted earlier in the year for it. For example, the expected gain in raw steel production of 4 to 5 per cent is nearly double actual performance of 2.6 per cent so far.

As 1972 began, steel producers were talking about record domestic mill shipments of around 95 million net tons. During the summer, this figure was generally revised downward to 83 million tons.

NOW, WITH INDICATIONS that third quarter shipments trailed expectations, many company analysts are putting 1972 domestic mill shipments at just under 92 million net tons.

Although the current firming trend in steel orders is reasonably broad, weakness persists in demand from the construction and capital goods industries — and plays a big role in the forecast revisions.

Also tending to dampen optimism are the generally slow business conditions in the diverse fabricated metals field.

A part of this is disappointing ordering of tin plate by canmakers as a result of reduced food harvests in locations that suffered a cool summer. The recent high level of steel imports is another factor tempering forecasts.

There are indications, however, that steelmaking and shipment volumes could do better than many analysts now dare to expect. One is that mills in most regions continue to report modest gains in demand for steel plate and structural products.

Coincidentally, the American Institute of Steel Construction, New York, reported fabricated structural steel tonnage bookings in the first eight months topped the 1971 period by 15 per cent. The order backlog in this field at the start of September was up 7 per cent from a year ago.

The general quickening in U.S. industrial activity also is being felt by the steel industry. For example, wire rod — from which fasteners are made — is in surprisingly high demand.

The index held steady in the latest week, with a rough balance in the components. Steel output edged upward for the third consecutive week. Inter-city truck tonnage advanced strongly, and railroad carloadings rose slightly. Auto production declined as only light overtime was scheduled. Electric power production and crude oil refinery runs eased off a bit.

Coal to Texas

The shipping of coal to produce power in oil-rich Texas is a coals-to-Newcastle twist in the nation's economy, but that's what's coming.

Burlington Northern, the longest railroad in the country, discloses that starting in 1976 it will haul 42.5 million tons of low-sulfur Wyoming coal to a new coal-fired power plant in Texas.

It's part of the changing energy picture in the United States. The coal will go to a new generating plant the Southwestern Electric Power Company (SWEPCO) is building at Cason, Tex. BN and the Kansas City Southern will operate three unit trains of 110 cars weekly over 1,483 miles between the AMAX Coal Co. mine near Gillette, Wyo. and the new SWEPCO plant.

Burlington Northern operates 38 unit trains weekly between mines in Montana, Wyoming, North Dakota and Illinois to power stations in Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Kentucky and Missouri.

GMAC CHANGE

Interest rates in new, mild climb

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Interest rates are rising again, but not nearly so strongly as the crescendo of discussion about them. Nobody is certain how high they will go, but that isn't the chief topic of conversation.

More to the point is the question of the government's attitude and whether it will step into the picture with greater restraint on the rate-setting freedom of banks, perhaps even using direct controls.

That prospect is remote at the moment, but the very possibility is enough to disturb some bankers, who are still recovering from a profits pinch that lasted through 1971 and into the first months of this year.

The addition of new controls by the government would be a shock not only for bankers but for the entire business community, which has become accustomed in recent weeks to speculating about when wage-price controls would be ended.

Speaking at the American Bankers Association annual convention in Dallas this week, the deputy secretary of the Treasury, Charles E. Walker, urged members to use restraint in their rating practices.

BUT IT was his statement that long-term interest rates are too high and should come down that provokes speculation on the question. "What if they don't?" and suggests the chance of direct controls.

The government could act quickly. Already existing is a presidential interest and dividend committee assigned the job of maintaining interest rate stability. It is headed by Arthur F. Burns, who also heads the Federal Reserve.

Ironically, one of the pressures on rates comes from the government itself because of big budget deficits that must be financed through competitive borrowing in the market, thus reducing the supply of lendable funds.

Other horrowing pressure is exerted by the strengthening economy. As economic prospects improve, companies find themselves needing additional funds for expansion, and so the prime rate is up to 5.75 per cent from 5.5 a week ago.

INDIVIDUALS too are more inclined to borrow as confidence returns. The outlook for prospective homebuyers is also one of higher rates, the result of a continued housing demand and a slackening of lendable funds as depositors reduce their rate of saving.

However, homebuyers might find themselves in a relatively better position than industrial borrowers. More than four million homes will have been built in 1971-1972, thus wiping out much of the backlog from 1969 and 1970.

The Chase Manhattan Bank thus assesses the mortgage outlook in these terms:

"Although the balance between demand and supply can be expected to deteriorate modestly and lead to some upward pressure on mortgage rates, the market should be able to weather the period ahead far better than in 1969."

Conventional mortgage rates are now a shade over 7.5 per cent on average, and are being nudged up by demand into the area of 7.6 or 7.7 per cent.

P-E ratio, yield in new tables

Two new informative readings, price-earnings ratio and yield percentage, have been added to the New York Stock Exchange tables for the Independent Press-Telegram's weekend round-up.

The P-E ratio refers to the price for which a stock is selling divided by its earnings. For example, if Brand X has an earnings record of two dollars per share and the sales price is $20, the P-E ratio is 10.

The yield percentage defines how much of a dividend is returned for the investment per share.

Reggie out... Campy in... Reds favored

Combined News Services
CINCINNATI — Reggie Jackson is out, Campy Campaneris is in and the Cincinnati Reds are 7-5 favorites to win today's opening game of the World Series against the Oakland Athletics.

Sunny skies, temperatures in the low 70's and a sellout crowd were forecast for Riverfront Stadium to see Cincinnati's Gary Nolan duel left-hander Ken Holtzman of the A's.

Oakland managed a split Friday.

Jackson was declared unfit for Series competition because of a severely pulled hamstring muscle in his left leg, sustained Thursday when he stole home with the tying run before the A's went on to eliminate the Detroit Tigers, 2-1, in the American League playoffs.

But while Jackson was unhappily pondering his misfortune, shortstop Campaneris was thanking the heavens. Suspended for the final three playoff games after flinging a bat at Tiger pitcher Lerlin LaGrew, Campaneris was given an 11th hour pardon by commissioner Bowie Kuhn who ruled him eligible for the Series.

Campaneris, however, did not get a complete reprieve. He'll have to miss the first seven games of the 1973 season which will cost him roughly $3,000 in pay.

"I think it's fair...I'll settle for that," Campaneris bubbled in broken English.

"I worried so much because all my life I've wanted to play in a World Series. The last few days have been terrible...so lonely. Now I'm a happy man."

"Bats don't carry very well in this park," the Reds' peppercorn, Pete Rose, told Campaneris playfully after the reinstatement.

Kuhn said he lifted the suspension because "it would unfairly penalize the innocent teammates and would impair the ability of the Oakland club to perform at its best in the Series. But deliberate bat-throwing is an extremely serious and intolerable act which requires a further penalty."

Meanwhile, Jackson, the slugging outfielder, was downcast, if not despondent.

"If this is a pulled hamstring, it's as serious as a heart attack, he said. "I'm in considerable pain and I couldn't sleep last night...there's no way I can play."

Nolan posted a 15-5 record for the Reds but won only once after the All-Star break while impeded by neck and shoulder miseries, discomforts which forced him to depart the third game of the National League playoffs against Pittsburgh after six innings.

"There is nothing wrong with my arm," Nolan insisted Friday. "I just ran out of gas, that's all. "I feel good, confident."

Holtzman, 19-11 for the A's perhaps summed up the feelings of the underdog Oaklanders.

The only ones who might disagree are Jackson and Vida Blue.

Blue continued to post Friday, insisting the A's in general and owner Charles O. Finley, in particular, didn't appreciate his talents.

Trouble is one thing the A's don't need. The confident Reds feel they'll give them more than enough, beginning today.

What can you say about a high school football game in which there were 160 yards in penalties, five interceptions, three fumbles and only three complete passes?

Such was the case Friday night at Veterans Stadium as Poly High turned in a lackluster performance in blanketing previously undefeated Muir, 12-0, giving the Rabbits (31) the best record of any Long Beach school near the advent of Moore League play.

After Muir received the opening kickoff and was hit by two 15-yard penalties within the first minute, Poly took over to score on its first possession, then was repeatedly plagued by its own mistakes until a fancy pitch-out-pass play enabled the second Hare touchdown.

Muir recovered to drive from its own 33-yard line to Poly's 30, but the Mustangs' momentum was stalled when Dave Hinton recovered a fumble by Muir quarterback Maurice Simpson with 4:05 remaining in the second quarter. Poly then seemed on its way to another score, but safely Leroy Jackson picked off Hill's under-thrown pass to Bruce Carey in the end zone to end the threat.

Following a Muir punt with six minutes to play in the third quarter, Poly uncorked the longest drive of the evening, a 77-yard, 13-play series culminated by Eldridge Jones' 12-yard scoring strike to split end Ronnie Hill on a fourth down and four yards to go situation.

That TD came just 30 seconds into the final period, when Hill took the snap, scrambled to the right and pitched to Jones, who lobbed the pass.

Muir's only serious threat of the game occurred with two minutes left in the opening quarter when Simpson overthrew a sure TD-pass to isolated end John Henno at Poly's 30.

Matsui, a 5-9, 180-pound junior, was the workhorse for the Rabbits, carrying 25 times for 89 yards. Fellow halfback Randy Woodard got the call 13 occasions and earned 58 yards.

Poly's passing game wasn't nearly as impressive as in past weeks, as QB Hill connected on only two of nine attempts for nine yards.

Muir Poly

Poly—Hill 12 pass from Jones (kick failed).

St. Anthony was plagued with problems. The Saints lost five fumbles, one interception and were assessed 68 yards in penalties.

Fenoglio found Mike Hamilton in the end zone with a 15-yard scoring aerial early in the third quarter to put the Rams ahead 27-0. Hamilton caught the two-point conversion.

With three minutes left in the third quarter Millikan began substituting liberally. In all, 13 players carried the ball for a net of 197 yards.

That's no way to treat a group of Saints.

Southern-flavored Millikan High scored early, and late, to crunch St. Anthony, 33-8, Friday night at Millikan.

Running out of the Texas Wishbone and using the Tennessee defense, the Rams overwhelmed the Saints.

St. Anthony crossed the Millikan 40 once, with 2:22 remaining in the game on the way to its only touchdown. By that time the Rams had been using substitutes for more than a quarter.

Eight plays into the first quarter Jack Holst took an option pitch-out from quarterback Steve Fenoglio and danced 13 yards into the end zone. Fenoglio kicked the extra point and with 7:33 remaining Millikan took a lead it would keep for the night.

Two plays later the Rams recovered a fumble, and five plays later Fenoglio lofted a six-yard scoring pass to Greg Airhart to run the first quarter score to 13-0.

Early in the second quarter Brad Liebeck began running the Rams to more points. The junior halfback, who gained 100 yards on seven carries, set up the third Ram score. Liebeck gained 66 yards on four carries during the drive to move the ball to the Saint five. Two plays later Les Christopher crashed into the end zone to run the score to 19-0.

St. Anthony was plagued with problems. The Saints lost five fumbles, one interception and were assessed 68 yards in penalties.

Fenoglio found Mike Hamilton in the end zone with a 15-yard scoring aerial early in the third quarter to put the Rams ahead 27-0. Hamilton caught the two-point conversion.

With three minutes left in the third quarter Millikan began substituting liberally. In all, 13 players carried the ball for a net of 197 yards.

In the fourth quarter

Millikan was forced to punt for the first time, with 6:33 remaining in the contest. At 5:41 St. Anthony gained its first first down of the second half when quarterback Ken Knorzer made the yardage on a three-yard run.

With 2:22 remaining St.

Anthony was lodged on the Ram 22. Knorzer, who passed for 121 yards on 13-of-22 attempts, hit Dave Blanchard for a 17-yard gain and found Jon Crotty in the end zone for a nine-yard TD pass to make the score 27-8 with 1:47 left.

An on-sides kick was short and Millikan's Fenoglio began experimenting. He attempted to pass to other quarterback Rick Rasmussen six times. Rasmussen had been inserted at end. The Saints took over for one down, were intercepted, and Fenoglio had the ball again. He hit Bill Fraser with a 28-yard aerial, with mementos remaining and with four seconds left in the ball game found Fraser in the end zone for a six-yard score.

Metcalf may return as 49ers battle defense-minded Pacific

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

STOCKTON — A pair of "Big Play" defenses — one that makes it and another that gets killed by it — will draw most of the attention here tonight when Long Beach State opens defense of its Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. football title.

The visiting 49ers tangle with Pacific, a team which has used an opportunistic defense to win three games in a row after season-opening losses at Washington (13-6) and LSU (31-13).

Kickoff is at 7:30 p.m. in Pacific's splintery Memorial Stadium and the game will be broadcast over KFOX-AM (1280) with Jerry Jackson and Bill Shumard describing the action.

Pacific comes into tonight's game off its most impressive win of the season — a 17-0 decision over Fresno State, the PCAA's No. 1 offensive team.

The Tigers won impressively with their defense. They scored one touchdown on a pass interception and set up the second by recovering a fumble on the Fresno 17.

The Tigers also stopped Fresno five times inside the Pacific 30 and finished the evening with five inter-

Long Beach, meanwhile, was getting the type of "big play" from its defense that drives coaches to an early grave.

Stung by 73 and 84-yard runs by the nation's No. 2 rusher, Pete Van Valkenburg, the 49ers fell to Brigham Young University, 38-27.

"I've never had a team get hurt so much by the home run," says Long Beach coach Jim Stangeland. "We seem to play real well for long periods of time, then, bang, somebody breaks one on us and it kills us."

It would help, naturally, if the 49ers had a home run of their own.

They might, tonight. All-America tailback Terry Metcalf has made good progress in his recovery from a bruised Achilles tendon and is a likely combatant tonight.

"Terry can run virtually at full speed now," Stangeland said Friday. "But we don't know for how long. We're just going to have to spot him in key situations Saturday night."

FOOTNOTES: The 49ers need Metcalf. In two meetings with the Tigers, Long Beach has scored only 21 points, winning 15-14 last year after losing 46-6 in 1970. "We're going to need more offense than we've had in the past against Pacific because they have an outstanding defense," says Stangeland.

The Tigers lost their No. 1 quarterback, Carlos Brown, in the game against Washington and are now run by freshman Bruce Keplinger, a fine option quarterback. The Tigers, run by the Houston Vecr, an offense which has given the 49ers fits this year, and pass rarely. Keplinger was 6-for-4 against Fresno and in wins over Fresno, Montana and Texas-Tl Paso, the youngster has completed only 3 of 19 passes for 21 yards.

The Tigers, however, don't need to pass. Keplinger (178 yards) either keeps or hands off to Willard Harrell (357 yards), Mitchell True (289 yards) or Mike Mangrum (238). The offense has scored only 60 points in the last three games, but the defense has allowed only 20.

In the past three years, Pacific has had more head coaches than Charley Finley has had baseball managers. The current coach, Chester Caddas, is the Tigers' fourth in three years. He is the defensive tactician who has stymied the 49ers so well the past two seasons. When Randy Drake scored twice and Tom Fitzpatrick and Quincy Newsome once each in the BYU game, it marked the first time in 39 games that a 49er halfback hadn't scored.

Trojan thunder - - or blunder? Cal finds out

Is this the Thundering Horde or the Blundering Horde?

USC has won five consecutive games and is the top-ranked college football team in the nation, yet the Trojans still have their skeptics.

This is principally because they managed to yield the ball six times on turnovers last week in defeating Stanford and have made many mistakes during earlier conquests.

Cal coach Mike White believes the Trojans "are as good as the four teams that went to the Rose Bowl" — a period encompassing the 1966 through 1969 seasons.

But White still says "this will be the game we've been waiting for" when he sends the Bears against the Trojans at 1:30 p.m. today before a Coliseum crowd expected to exceed 60,000.

"We've always believed that you have to beat USC in order to be in a position to try for the conference championship," says White, whose club is 1-4 over-all and 1-0 in the Pacific-8.

Even should the Bears win a conference title they would be ineligible for a Rose Bowl appearance because of a probationary period levied against them last year by the league and the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

Although senior Mike Rae was taken out of the game in the third quarter at Stanford and sophomore Pat Haden finished the contest, Trojan coach John McKay intends to return to the status quo today.

"Mike Rae is our No. 1 quarterback," says McKay. "I have complete faith in his ability to run our offense."

McKay also plans to start junior Rod McNeill at tailback. McNeill fumbled three times in USC's 30-21 win over Stanford, once giving the Cardinals a touchdown on a ball that skittered into the end zone.

"I think Cal will put the ball into the air at least 50 times against us," predicts McKay. "They have three good passers and some of the best receivers in the conference."

USC also plans to open up its attack against the Bears.

"I think we were too conservative at times last week," he said. "We'll probably pass more against Cal."

White says he may delay his decision on a starting quarterback until Saturday. He can choose from among senior Jay Cruze, sophomore Steve Bartkowski and freshman Vince Ferragamo.

Beavers look to Brown to sack invading UCLA

By GARY RAUSCH
Staff Writer

CORVALLIS—Steve Brown arrived in Benton County three autumns ago eager to play football for Dee Andros and Oregon State University.

He languished through 6-5 and 5-6 seasons. Now in the throes of the worst Beaver start since 1954 and with powerful UCLA on the Parker Stadium bill today, Brown believes OSU's pathetic 1-4 record has served to inspire him to even greater heights, emotionally as well as physically.

"I'm handling the situation with more of a professional attitude," he explained prior to a light workout Friday.

"We've experienced some bad times as a team and all I can do is play the best I can. If I keep doing my job, maybe it will rub off on the others."

Brown is what one expects of an Andros student. He's an articulate well-mannered, soft-spoken, yes-sir, no-sir type off the field. He touches turf and he's instant Dick Butkus.

"MOST PLAYERS PSYCH UP for games," says one Brown booster. "Steve gets psyched up for practices."

"If all the Beavers had Brown's enthusiasm, Oregon State would be undefeated going into this afternoon's fray."

Pro scouts rate the 6-3, 235-pound pride of Porterville a sure first-round draft selection. He's the best linebacker in America today.

All he did to earn all-Coast and Pac-8 honors last season was lead the league in interceptions with seven while making 134 tackles. He was on everybody's pre-season all-America teams, including Hugh Hefner's, and a sure bet for similar 1972 post-season awards.

He's already pilfered three enemy passes and pummeled 86 ball carriers into submission.

Mention of his defensive statistics brings a frown of dissatisfaction. "I took a week off this summer just to think out my goals for the coming season," he confesses.

"I wanted 18 to 20 tackles a game (he's ONLY averaging 17), so many interceptions, so many fumble recoveries, blocked kicks and pass deflections."

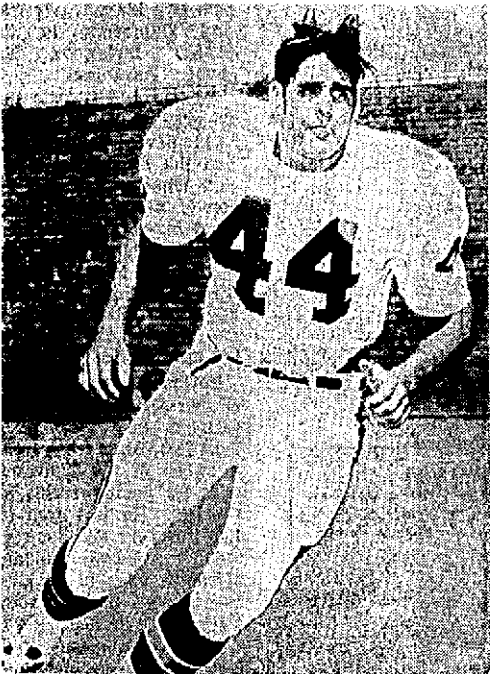

Brown has been forced to play it safe from his middle linebacker spot because the Beavers are habitually behind on the scoreboard. Reckless aggressiveness is his forte and he's been playing in harness, so to speak.

Thus he's been more ferocious in practice. "That's when I work hardest because that's what makes the game on Saturday afternoon — that little extra bit of effort you put forth on Tuesday or Wednesday."

IT ISN'T LIKELY the Beavers will take UCLA as lightly as they did San Diego State (8-17), USC (6-5), Iowa (11-19) or Arizona State (7-38).

"This has been the greatest practice week since I came to Oregon State for sheer spirit, team concentration and emotional output.

"We scrimmaged one day and the first team offense and defense went at it. There were fistcuffs after every play," grins the 21-year-old education major.

STEVE BROWN... pride of OSU

"Our defense has played on pride and emotion all season because our offense has put us in some tough situations. We don't hold it against them, though, because last year they stayed with us when we were making the mistakes."

Brown admits a change has come over him this season, the last two or three weeks especially. "I asked myself, 'I'm out here, but why?'"

The answer was there, just as it had been when he left the ranch in Porterville to hunt the woods and fish the streams of the beautiful Willamette Valley.

"I love to play football. It's a special feeling. I want to play. I even look forward to practice."

"It's intriguing to me. Here we are formulating a defensive game plan to stop UCLA's Wishbone offense," continues Steve. "That's a helluva challenge."

Brown points to Andros as one of the enlightening points in a dismal season. "He cares about you and I believe that's rare in a head coach today. It's on its way out."

"It really doesn't bother him all that much if we win or lose. He wants us to do the best we can. It really hurts him when we don't perform up to our ability — like we have so far."

"He's told me many times, 'That was a great game, Steve, but you can play better. Don't cheat yourself.'"

"Smiling after a defeat because you know your team played as well as they can is rare in a coach. But coach Andros is a very rare person," concludes Steve Brown, a very rare linebacker.

Steve Towne hit on 11 of 20 tries for 185 yards and two touchdowns.

Both of the scoring tosses went to wingback Junior Lee, and six more completions were hauled in by split end Allen Brown.

Fullerton also has a running attack, which, for Long Beach fans on hand tonight, may seem to have a home town flavor: leading Hornet rusher is tailback Lionel Punchard who played for Poly a couple years ago.

Fullerton also features wide receiver Rob Conrad, who has caught three passes for scores, and a pair of defensive standouts, middle guard Mike Hannah, who is being boomed for all-America, and all-conference defensive end Steve Bustanov.

LBCC will counter with some defensive personalities of its own, including big tackles Dana White and Mike Holleran, linebacker Rick Breeze, and defensive end John Roberts.

Admitting he expects trouble from Churchward, a 5-9, 160-pound roll-out artist, Viking coach Gary Jacobsen predicted that Fullerton "might hit a couple."

Obviously, then, Jacobsen expects his team to hit a couple more — not only to keep his win string going and maintain the proper place in the sun in JC rankings, but also to pick up momentum for next week's important Metro Conference opener with Pasadena City College, a team which has been running over all opposition and which holds the No. 2 JC rating.

Here's a tip: the Rams have S.F.'s number

Compiled from I, P-T sources

Or, worse yet, their numbers.

The Rams, after last week's 31-7 success, have won eight of the last 10 matches, tying another. An unconfirmed report circulated last week that the Rams had detected "tips" in the 49ers' offensive line in the "71 exhibition game and had been using them to read the S.F. offense ever since.

But it's even more likely that the Rams are merely setting their defenses for John Brodie's tendencies, with which they are well acquainted after some 30 encounters with the 49er quarterback.

Ram linebacker Isiah Robertson said as much after last Sunday's rout.

"He may be right," Brodie said. "I'm going to look at the films to see if what he's saying is just opinion or fact."

"This hasn't been a consistent thing. We used to score like heck against the Rams. But since Tommy Prothro's been there, they've done very well against us. I'm going to study this thing and see why."

THE NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE has a product to sell — entertainment — and there is no moral or legal reason — yet — that it should be given away free.

Fans already are privileged to see three or four games on TV each weekend, and that's roughly a third of the schedule. They see all of their local team's road games free, and now there are new agitators who insist that they have a "right" to see the home games free, too — that is, by compelling the NFL to lift its TV blackouts if a game is sold out 48 hours in advance.

The irony is that if TV blackouts were lifted, very few games would be sold out at all — especially, say, on a wintry Sunday in Green Bay.

Perhaps there is a deeper motive to the legislation proposed by Sen. John O. Pastore (D, R.I.), chairman of the communications subcommittee, in the form of Senate Bill 4010.

Mike Brown, assistant general manager of the Cincinnati Bengals, charges outright that the measure is being pushed by Washington politicians "who can't get into (the Redskins') games free."

NOTABLE QUOTES

Atlanta safety Clarence Ellis, charged with pass interference on the pivotal play in a 28-23 loss to Detroit: "I saw the guy go to his pocket for a handkerchief. I thought maybe he had a runny nose."

Detroit cornerback Rudy Redmond, traded by Norm Van Brocklin the day Ellis was drafted: "The Falcons talk about championships, but you have to win games like this. They always seem to lose those games. People used to look to the players about that. Maybe they ought to look to the coach."

Dallas running back Calvin Hill, who fired a 36-yard TD pass to Ron Sellers: "What the National Football League needs is a good, black quarterback."

St. Louis QB Gary Cuozzo, after former teammate Fred Cox missed a last-minute field goal for Minnesota: "I love Freddie like a brother, but I'm glad he missed it."

San Diego RB Mike Garrett, off to his best year: "I'm getting super help. They're my kind of people. John Hadl is sweet, too."

Charger kicker Dennis Partee, who strengthened his leg in therapy for a fracture and booted the winning field goal against Baltimore: "I owe it all to a broken leg."

Miami RB Larry Csonka, noted critic of artificial turf, after beating the Jets at Shea: "It was great Real grass and it was wet — just the way I like it."

New Orleans QB Archie Manning: "It isn't morale or attitude . . . but we do recognize we don't have the greatest ability in the NFL."

AFTER a 37-2 loss to San Francisco, a New Orleans radio station solicited opinions of the Saints from the man on the street. One went like this:

"What's wrong with the Saints?"

"They're tipping off their plays."

"How do you know?"

"Everytime they break the huddle, the other team knows which back is going to carry the ball."

"How can they tell?"

"It's the back with tears in his eyes."

A WASHINGTON radio station also took a poll — and the Redskins fans said overwhelmingly that they wanted Sonny Jurgensen to take over from Bill Kilmer.

Jurgensen got a big ovation when he opened against Philadelphia, a lesser one after a flustered victory.

Kilmer was asked how he thought his replacement performed.

"Jurgensen played a good game," Billy replied. "That is all I have to say."

STILL ANOTHER poll, this one taken among coaches, scouts and players by New York Giants PR man Don Smith, to determine the "toughest dozen" players.

Predictably, nine are defensive players, including six line-

kus, San Francisco's Dave Wilcox, Baltimore's Mike Curtis, Kansas City's Willie Lanier and Bobby Bell and Miami's Nick Buoniconti.

The Rams' Fred Dryer was the only defensive end chosen, along with tackles Bob Lilly and Jethro Pugh of Dallas.

The only offensive players listed were running backs MacArthur Lane, Green Bay, and Dave Osborn, Minnesota, and tight end Pettis Norman, San Diego.

DALLAS defensive end Larry Cole will miss two or three games with a sprained knee. Why is Denver struggling with a veteran quarterback, Charley Johnson, sitting on the bench? Could it be that part of the Broncos' trade agreement with Houston was that the Oilers would get a No. 3 draft pick, instead of a No. 4, if Johnson played seven or more games?

Flashback report: Since moving in the linebacks markers, touchdowns, points and 100-yard rushing games are up over the same stage last season. The 49ers' Bruce Gossett's consecutive field goal string was stopped at 21 games by the Rams last week, in case you didn't notice. . . . On the casualty front, Kansas City QB Len Dawson (bruised ribs) and play if he had to against Cincinnati Sunday.

LSU on college hotseat; Texas battles Sooners

Combined News Services

When college football's 104th season began a month ago, Toledo and Nebraska were on winning streaks of 35 and 23 games, respectively, the longest in the nation in years.

Those win streaks lasted right up to opening day when both Toledo and Nebraska were upset and suddenly Tennessee had the nation's longest winning streak, eight wins in a row. It lasted two more weeks until the Vols lost to Auburn.

Then Mississippi became the nation's big winner with an eight-game win streak — until Ole Miss also lost to Auburn.

LSU now holds the honor of having the nation's longest string of victories but the Tigers, winners of eight games in a row, face — you guessed it — Auburn today. Despite being favored by 10 1/2 points LSU is hardly glancing past pesky Auburn, itself among the nation's powers with a 4-0 record and No. 9 ranking in the two wire service polls.

"It's nice to have the nation's longest winning streak and all of us want to keep it that way," says Pepper Rulland, linebacker for the eighth-ranked Tigers, also 4-0. "Auburn's going to be tough but we'll be ready."

Another game of major importance is the annual struggle in the Cotton Bowl between Southwest Conference rivals Texas and Oklahoma. The No. 2 rated Sooners are three-touchdown favorites in the nationally-televvised game (Channel 7, 12:30 p.m.).

In the last decade, under coach Darrell Royal, Texas has won 22 of 26 games and three of the four losses have been in the Cotton Bowl—once to Notre Dame, once to Penn State and once a year ago to Oklahoma.

A throng of 70,000-plus is expected today with Oklahoma, which has outscored its rivals 169-6 this season, expected to hand the Longhorns their first loss this year.

"For the first time I don't think people are taking Texas seriously," said Tim Welch, the fullback in Oklahoma's Wishbone-T offense. "It's going to be a battle, all right. Our players know Texas is going to be as tough as ever," he added, frowning on the fact Oklahoma is favored by 21 points.

"Defensively we have the best personnel since I've been here," said Sooners coach Chuck Fairbanks, reflecting on the two field goals the club's defense has surrendered. Other teams in the Top Ten should have little trouble with the exception of No. 10 Washington, a three-point underdog to Stanford. The Huskies are unbeaten after five games while Stanford's only loss came last week against No. 1 USC.

The Trojans are an overwhelming favorite over California at the Coliseum, third-ranked Alabama is favored by 24 over Florida, No. 4 Ohio State is tabbed by 21 over Illinois in the Big Ten, fifth-ranked Nebraska figures to swarmp Missouri—the Cornhuskers are favored by 34—sixth-ranked Michigan is a two-TD choice to beat Michigan State and seventh-ranked Notre Dame should have little difficulty with Pittsburgh.

Among others, UCLA is a 14-point choice over Oregon State today in Corvallis. Iowa State, 14th on the UPI poll, is a two-touchdown underdog to No. 16 Colorado, and 15th ranked Air Force is eight points better than Boston College.

Just how good are the Vikes? Fullerton may provide answer

By JIM MANGAN
Staff Writer

Long Beach City College, which believes it has a pretty good football team, will find out for sure tonight against Fullerton College, a team which also thinks highly of itself.

The long-time foes meet at 7:30 p.m. in Anaheim Stadium.

The Vikings, who moved into seventh spot in state JC rankings after beating stubborn San Diego Mesa 13-7, will take a 2-0-1 mark into tonight's action.

Earlier LBCC had beaten Grossmont 22-0 and tied Cerritos 17-17.

The Hornets, although unranked after being upset 15-9 by Los Angeles City College in their opener, have come back strong with wins over Bakersfield (25-19) and Pierce (31-14).

The victory over Pierce may have been a preview of Fullerton's game plan against the Vikes: three of the Hornet touchdowns came on aerial strikes by quarterback Mike Churchward.

Supporting such a Fullerton possibility is the LBCC defensive line, the most consistent feature of Viking play to date. None of the three opponents has been able to make significant progress on the ground.

But Fullerton will not have a monopoly on offensive fireworks.

The Vikings have shown a good running game with a one-two punch of tailback Bill Cecil and fullback John Dellenger.

Burke Handicap at Oak Tree

Cougar II launches comeback

Colorful Cougar II, one of the nation's most exciting handicap performers for the past two years, gets back into the hunt for horse of the year recognition today when he will lift highweight of 128 pounds in the $58,100 Burke Handicap over a mile and one-quarter on the grass at the Oak Tree meeting at Santa Anita.

Mary F. Jones' Chilean-bred "Big Cat," whose spectacular stretch runs have made him a favorite of racegoers in the west, has been absent from the racing scene since late June. However, he has trained seasonally for his comeback and, despite his impost, figures to be the favorite in the Burke.

In addition to Cougar II, trainer Charlie Whittingham also will send out Claiborne Farm's Practicante, who surprised Cougar in the San Juan Capistrano last winter, and Burt Bacharach's Mirlivan.

Oposing Whittingham's trio, uncoupled in the betting because of different ownership, will be Niagara, Tetrack, Fignero, the Hat Ranch entry of Timoteo and Arlaxeres, Times Rosh, Easter Hero, Kentuckian, Vegas Vic and Dukedom.

For the first time since Laffit Pincay, Jr. rode Cougar II to second-place behind stablemate Ack Ack in the 1971 Santa Anita Handicap, a rider other than Bill Shoemaker will be in the saddle on the big bay horse. Don Pierce has been tabbed by Whittingham to replace the suspended Shoemaker in the major steppingstone to the $100,000 Oak Tree Invitational on Nov. 1.

Cougar last appeared under silks at Hollywood Park on June 24 when he was third under 129 pounds behind Typecast in the Hollywood Turf Invitational. An infection in his left foreleg caused him to miss the remainder of that meeting and he didn't return to serious training until the Del Mar season.

HARBOR POINT knifed between horses in the stretch and drove to a neck victory over 23-1 longshot Lo Curro in the $12,000 Silver Cloud Purse, Friday's mile and one-sixteenth feature.

With Jerry Lambert getting his second successive winner, Harbor Point returned $11.00, 6.50 and 4.20 as the third choice of the crowd of 12,725. Lo Curro paid 18.00 and 6.80, and Extra Hand was third, paying $6.80.

Two top pacers collide

Hollypark feature matches speedsters

The irresistible force and the immovable object, in the form of El Patron and Horton Hanover, clash head-on tonight at Hollywood Park in what could be the most interesting dash of the current Western Harness season.

El Patron, by virtue of three victories in four local starts, including the meet's fastest mile (1:57 3-5) ranks as king of the hill, at Hollypark, but that position will be challenged by Horton Hanover, who will be putting his own six-race winning streak on the line.

El Patron will be joined by Bye Bye Max, Windy Way and Damascus in the $12,500 Inglewood Exchange Club Purse.

Trainer-driver Eddie Wheeler says El Patron "has never been better" and the record bears him out. Wheeler has sent the son of Adios Butler to the front in each of his Hollywood outings and only once did he fail to lead all the way. In addition to his 1.57 3-5 score, El Patron also has stopped the timer in 1.50 and 1.59 3-5.

Horton Hanover, a seven-year-old whose career earnings now total more than $435,000, is fresh from a sweep of the four-race midwest pacing series in Chicago. He has won in 1.58 this year and has recorded sub-two minute clockings each of the past two seasons at Hollywood Park.

Tonight's supporting feature is an $8,000 invitational mile for pacers and will bring together Doctor Tom, victor in 1.59 2-5 and 1.59 4-5 in his last two starts, and Bramble Hall and Zhivago N. who dead-heated in 2.00 flat last weekend.

Sir Dalrae became the first four-time winner of the harness meeting Friday night when he won the featured $10,000 Yorkshire Pace in 2:00 1/2 over Flying Dream N.

Sir Dalrae failed to notch a record fourth 2.00 mile when the early fractions developed at an unusually slow pace for free-for-all pacers.

When it was all over, Sir Dalrae—the converted trotter—was clocked in 2:00 1/2.

Gordon up in air, lands happily in Ram camp

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

PHILADELPHIA — Dick Gordon had been up in the air for months.

"I was in L.A. most of the summer," the Rams' new wide receiver said on the team's flight to Philadelphia Friday, "then back to Chicago for awhile, then back to L.A., then to Cincinnati last week, back to Chicago, and then to L.A. again last night."

"Now I am on my way to Philadelphia. I'll say this—it's the happiest flight of all."

Gordon played in Chicago for seven years — about as long as he could bear it. He was all-pro in 1970 when he led the National Football League with 71 receptions, and when he went to ask George Halas for a contract comparable to his talent, Papa Bear refused.

"Money was the big part of it," Gordon says, "but there were also my esthetic values that I thought were being stepped on."

So, along with quarterback Jack Concannon and star lineman George Seals, Gordon played out his option in '71 and became a free agent last May.

"Well, not exactly a free agent," he smiled, "because they still have to make a trade."

That bit of business was concluded Thursday when the Rams signed Gordon and NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle compensated the Bears with the Rams' No. 1 draft choice of 1974 — the one Rozelle had awarded them for George Allen's double dealing of choices in the Richie Peterson swap.

Ram general manager Don Klosterman, who counts experience in wheeling and dealing at Kansas City, Houston and Baltimore, rated it as perhaps his most difficult transaction.

At different stages it involved not only Klosterman but owner Carroll Rosenbloom and coach Tommy Prothro and, on the Bears' end, George Halas Sr. and George (Mugs) Halas Jr., as well as coach Abe Giron — not to mention Gordon's agent, Chuck Dekeado of Los Angeles.

"We must have had 50 conversations," Klosterman says. "American Tel and Tel was crazy about the deal. But anytime you deal for a superstar it's tough."

It broke down, however, when the Rams went to Chicago to play the Bears three weeks ago.

"I told 'em I'd be there if they wanted to talk," Klosterman says, "but they didn't show any interest."

Two weeks ago Gordon, who had worked out one day with the Rams in training camp, also practiced with the Cincinnati Bengals.

"But the Rams were always one of my top choices," he said. "Not only for the team, but for the whole rapport of Southern California."

Gordon practiced with the Rams Friday morning before joining them on the flight East. He won't play Sunday against the Eagles, but should be ready against Cincinnati at the Coliseum next week.

"I don't think I've really been out of shape in 15 years," he says.

The scouting report on Gordon says it all: exceptional speed, good hands, an ability to "run patterns any way you want them" — bachelor, with flashy mod clothes and a groovy afro.

"You weren't allowed to express yourself as a man in Chicago," he says. "Subservience was thought of as a virtue. I was harassed for my hair and my clothes. And it was a low-budget operation. It wasn't first class."

"Their story was that I had a bad attitude, and the newspapers labelled me that way, because I wouldn't go along with everything they wanted..."

"But I'll tell you — during the 60 minutes I'm on the field, I'm as disciplined as anybody. When I'm off the field I like to go my own way."

It's 'nervous time' again for Tarkanian

By JIM MCCORMACK
Staff Writer

Chick Hearn describes it as "nervous time." It normally affects only Laker fans during the final two minutes of National Basketball Assn. games with the Milwaukee Bucks.

But each year, around Oct. 15, Long Beach State basketball coach Jerry Tarkanian experiences a similar ailment. Annually, it lasts until March.

The symptoms are always the same — a pessimistic nervousness, a rasping voice and rapidly diminishing fingernails.

A stranger would think that Tarkanian was 17-96 in his four years at Long Beach and that he locked the gymnasium doors during practice to protect his players from irate alumni.

That, of course, is a false impression. Tarkanian is 96-17 and has won four consecutive conference titles (the only ones the school has ever won) in his tenure at Long Beach.

He can still be as pessimistic as the best of 'em, and with practice beginning Monday, the Armenian is in midseason form.

Can Long Beach win its third consecutive Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. title?

"I hope so," Tarkanian says with a genuine look of concern. "We should be as good or better than we were last year, but we have a lot to make up. We lost two exceptional athletes in Chuck Terry and Eric McWilliams and I'm not sure how we'll make that up."

The 49ers didn't lose everyone or even No. 1, for that matter.

Tarkanian will build his fifth 49er team around 6-foot-6 Ed Ratliff, the wonder player who was a first team choice on every all-America squad chosen after last season and who was a starter for the U.S. Olympic team in Munich.

"Eddie's unreal — as a person and a player," smiles Tarkanian. "You know what he did the other day? He thanked me for what the program and the school have done for him."

"Can you imagine that? He makes our program, on the court and off, and then thanks us. He's amazing."

"We have a lot of players back," admits Tarkanian. "Nate Stephens...Leonard Gray...Glenn McDonald...Lamont King...Tom Motley...Ernie Douse, and transfers Phil Hicks and Rick Aberger."

"But we have a lot of question marks. We don't know yet what Hicks or Aberger can do. Douse didn't have a good freshman year and we need improved performances out of Stephens, Gray and King."

Can such things happen?

"Sure," promises Tarkanian. "The chances are more than 50 per cent that everyone will play better than last year — it's reasonable to expect everyone will be improved."

"But," Tarkanian adds pessimistically, "you can never be sure; anything can happen." That's why it's nervous time for Tarkanian.

Trevino survives Jacklin's charge

WENTWORTH, England (UPI) — Lee Trevino figured he aged 10 years en route to today's 36-hole American final against Tom Weiskopf in the Piedmont World Match Play Golf Championship.

"I feel like 42 now," he said after emerging weary in mind and body but triumphant by the narrowest margin possible from his semi-final Friday against Tony Jacklin.

Trevino, runner-up in 1970 to Jack Nicklaus in another closely-contested match, won a contest of quality that neither player deserved to lose.

Jacklin, the 28-year-old local idol who reserves his best performances for the "big ones," carded an 11-under-par figure 63 for his second tour of the 6,997 yard, par-74 course and got beat one-up.

Trevino shot seven-under-par 67s in both morning and afternoon rounds and scraped home despite leading by four holes after the opening 18.

Gardena gains golf lead tie

VICTORVILLE — Bob Bisch of Gardena shot a four-under-par 68 Friday to catch first-day leader Gary McCord of Riverside at 141 to share the lead in the $13,000 Spring Valley Lake golf championship.

McCord, who shot a brilliant 66 on Thursday, soared to a 75 Friday. The final round is today.

141-Bob Bisch 73-68; Gary McCord 66-75.
142-John Adams 73-69; Bob Clark 72-70.
143-Rex Caldwell 71-74.
144-Sandy Galbraith 75-71; Gary Aldrich 74-73.
145-Tommy Jacobs 73-74; Bob Unger 72-73.
146-Billy Eaton 73-74; Don Boes 74-73.
147-Denny Meyer 74-74; Tom Slater 73-77.
148-Ted Loefer 74-74; Jerry Barber 73-73; 150-Marty Slogden 74-72; 151-Johnny Loefer and Pinky Stevenson picked up.

U.S. gal golfers see giant lead cut; Davis Cup tied, 1-1

Combined News Services

The 13-stroke lead of the United States in the Women's World Team Golf Championships was slashed to four strokes in the third round Friday in Buenos Aires. The American team of Laura Baugh, Jane Bastanchury Booth and Mary Budke slipped to a 153 for a 54-hole total of 438 as France posted a 139 and jumped from eighth to second place at the halfway point in the tournament.

Miss Baugh, of Long Beach, had a 77 for a two-round score of 222; Mrs. Booth of Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., shot a 77 and is at 218, tied for the unofficial individual lead with three others, and Miss Budke of Dayton, Ore., shot a 76.

IN THE Davis Cup best-of-five tennis finals at Bucharest, top-rated Stan Smith defeated Romanian national idol Ilie Nastase, but Tom Gorman of Seattle blew a two-set lead to tie the U.S. and Romania deadlocked at 1-1 after the opening day.

Smith, of Pasadena, beat Nastase, 11-9, 6-2, 6-3 before Tiriace came back to win the second singles from Gorman, 4-6, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2. Today Smith and Erick van Dillen team in a critical doubles match against Tiriace and Nastase and on Sunday Smith plays Tiriace while Gorman faces Nastase.

TOP-SEEDED Billie Jean King advanced to the semifinals of the $100,000 Virginia Slims Tennis Championships by defeating eighth-ranked Wendy Overton, 7-6, 6-2, at Boca Raton, Fla.

EVERYTHING was set for the Philadelphia Blazers WHA ice hockey opener Friday night—everything, that is, except the ice.

The Blazers had to postpone their opener with the New England Whalers when the ice surface was determined unfit for play. The fans, more than 5,000 of them, pelted what was left of the ice with everything from paper cups to souvenir pucks.

STEVE CARLTON, the Philadelphia Phillies' 27-game winner and probable winner of the Cy Young Award, and three other major leaguers were ordered off a Frontier Airlines flight Friday because they reportedly were playing a tape recorder too loudly, were drinking from their own supply of liquor and refused to stop when asked to by a stewardess.

Besides Carlton, Joe Moerner and Pat Jarvis of the Atlanta Braves, and Montreal catcher Tim Lincecum were involved. Also on board was the Braves' Henry Aaron but he was not ordered off the plane. The group, which was permitted to board a later flight from Casper, Wyoming, was en route to Great Falls, Mont., on a hunting trip.

JEFF SEVERSON, of Long Beach State, was placed on the taxi squad of the Washington Redskins, to make room for running back George Nock. Severson is a safety.

A LOS ANGELES attorney, obviously a proponent of "men's lib," doesn't like paying $2.25 to get into Santa Anita Park when ladies are allowed to enter free on Ladies Day promotions. So he's filed a $6 million damage suit, claiming "explicit sexual discrimination." You don't suppose he had a bad day at track, do you?

Radio personality in profile

TV-Radio Editor

Television takes a look at a radio personality Sunday night when KNBC (Channel 4) presents a profile of Bill Ballance of KGBS.

The TV feature on Ballance and his "Feminine Forum" will be part of a new "television magazine" program called "The Time Being," which makes its debut at 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

BALLANCE'S "Feminine Forum" on KGBS (1020) is one of the most talked about daytime radio shows on the air. Myra Scott of KNBC will focus on Ballance and his show and will give an indication of why both are so popular.

"The Time Being" is a half-hour program that will be hosted by Ms. Scott and Paul Moyer, KNBC News reporters. It will deal with "what's happening now," presenting features about people, places and things in the Southland.

Other stories on the first program will be about the plight of the aged in our society, the Roy Rogers Museum in Apple Valley and the birth of a baby to an ex-heroin addict now on methadone.

FOR THE BENEFIT of those readers who skip the sports pages (Note to John Dixon; there are a few) but get interested in baseball at World Series time, let me point out that the series begins today and, of course, will be televised.

NBC-TV (Channel 4) will bring us today's opener between the Cincinnati Reds and the Oakland Athletics in Cincinnati at 10 a.m. (a pre-game show will start at 9:30).

Sunday's game also will start at 10 a.m., Monday will be an off day, and the Tuesday, Wednesday and (if necessary) Thursday contests in Oakland will come on at 5:15 p.m.

If the series goes beyond five games, the sixth would be next Saturday morning and the seventh, if necessary, would be Sunday.

KFI (640) will carry all the games on radio.

ARE THE OKLAHOMA Sooners as good as, or better than, USC's Trojans? TV viewers may form their own opinion after watching today's televised NCAA game between Oklahoma and the Texas Longhorns in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas. It will start at 12:45 p.m. on Channel 7.

Or perhaps you'd rather see the Trojans play California in the Coliseum in person this afternoon.

KUNG FU, a once-a-month dramatic-adventure series, will have its premiere at 8 tonight on Channel 7, replacing "Alias Smith & Jones" for the evening.

As you know if you happened to have seen the pilot movie, "Kung Fu" is about a half-American, half-Chinese Buddhist monk who comes roving the American West of the 1870s with a price on his head.

David Carradine, son of John Carradine, stars as Caine, a stoic but sensitive young man trained during his boyhood, in China, in the physical and mental disciplines of Kung Fu. It enables him to perform feats of strength and agility that, to western eyes, make them appear superhuman. And it is Caine's sole defense against his enemies.

LIZA MINELLI, perhaps the hottest attraction in showbiz as the result of her hit movie "Cabaret" and her recent TV special, "Liza With a Z," returns to the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas Wednesday for a three-week engagement. The Riviera reports an unprecedented request for advance reservations. Comedian Norm Crosby is also on the bill.

KMPC's Geoff Edwards and the Los Angeles Cabaret, an improvisational comedy troupe, will open a two-week run at the Ice House in Pasadena Tuesday night.

"MANCINI GENERATION" is pre-empted today by a Lakers' basketball game. It will return to its regular 6:30 p.m. Saturday time slot on Channel 5 next week. The scheduled confrontation between 4th District supervisor candidates James A. Hayes and Marvin Braude on Channel 4 today has been canceled. Instead, "KNBC News Conference" at 6:30 p.m. will feature an interview with John Connally.

The Mormon World Conference will be televised from 6 to 8 a.m. Sunday on Channel 11. "I Am

"READ THE METER"

By Larry Meder
HARBOR CHEVROLET

A sparrow named Paul stood perched high-up on a telephone wire and leaned forward to whisper something very important into his girlfriend's ear as she was perched on another telephone line facing him.

While he entreated the advantages she would enjoy were she to consent to enter the portals of matrimony as his carnal consort, she kept hopping from one foot to the other — leaving her love-sick lothario most disconcerted.

He pressed on doggedly, however, despite her high-wire antics, which almost "made him soar", then finally blurted, "Why, oh why do you keep hopping up and down while I endeavor so desperately to make you my wife?"

"I really wasn't taking your proposal lightly, Paul," she cooed. "It's just that the woman talking on this line has a very irritating voice — AND IT'S TUCKLING MY FEET!"
